Project Funds Uncertain

San Mateo County Housing Authority officials are anxiously awaiting word from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) on whether to proceed with the 150-unit Midway Village redevelopment project in Daly City.

The Authority has spent about $100,000 on final plans for the project, according to Executive Director Glenn Weman, who said it would be "a shame" if the Authority is not allowed to proceed with the $4.9 million project.

The question over whether the project will proceed resulted from President Nixon's recent freeze on Housing and Urban Development funds for housing projects.

Weman told a Post reporter, however, that the Daly City project had advanced to the point of receiving a preliminary loan approval from HUD prior to the freeze order and his office was therefore uncertain if the freeze would apply.

"We are trying to get some sort of clarification," he said, noting he hopes to get a definite answer from HUD officials within a week.

The proposed project, at Schwerin Street and Geneva Avenue, would result in the demolition of World War II vintage low-income housing units and the construction of new units.

Under the plan, nine acres on the 27-acre plot would be returned to Pacific Gas and Electric Company, which had leased the property to the Housing Authority.

The remaining 18-acre parcel would contain a five-acre public park along with 150 housing units of from one to five bedrooms.

No matter what the final HUD decision is on the matter, the existing housing on the property must be torn down by the end of 1974 in compliance with the California Health and Safety Code, Weman said.

If the project is finally approved, Weman said, the Authority plans "to move very quickly" and advertise for construction bids.

CONCERNED CITIZENS GROUP met recently in Daly City to search out ways and means to prevent closure of the Information and Referral Center. Attending the meeting were City of Daly City representative Don Fleming, Ped Estolas, Patricia Dean, Henry A. Wa, Leola White, Al Toles, Gus DuBois, Julius Castelan, Allen Powers, Annie Thompson, Saudra Littlejohn, Marion Goodwin (Director of the I&RC; and Angelo Cabe.

Info Center in Trouble

Time is fast running out for the Daly City Information and Referral Center as it is for similar storefront operations throughout the nation in the wake of announced cutbacks in the federal budget.

The center on Mission Street, focal point for thousands of citizens seeking jobs and a wide assortment of information over the past four years, will lock its doors on March 31.

Only a miracle will stay the closing of the center. And its present director, Marion Goodwin, doesn't think that miracle will happen in time.

He has asked the city of Daly City for $33,000 in emergency funding, enough to maintain a staff of four to keep the operation open.

The money, if granted, would come from the recent federal government revenue sharing windfall.

But talks on how this money will be spent — some $390,000 this year — will not start until mid-April and officials at City Hall expect a deluge of applications for a piece of the funding.

The closing of the center will leave a vacuum as far as many of the city's senior citizens and low-income groups are concerned, even though most of the projects will be picked up by other agencies.

These programs will be scattered around San Mateo County and at least one, the social security office, will be in San Francisco — three miles from the present location.

"Extinction (of the center) will lead to chaos on many different levels, which will be costly not merely in economic terms, but in experimental and educational terms as well," a recent release issued by the center stated.

Centralization of referral services will be completely disrupted, Mike Furtch, assistant at the center, said.

Since its incorporation in 1969 the center has provided an assortment of services. In 1972 the center assisted 2,460 persons in one way or another.

Included in the cutbacks is the legal aid service. This service will phase out in another six months after funds run out. It will, in the meantime, handle pending cases.

The Jobs for Older Americans, which is handled by a part-time woman working 20 hours per week, has been cut, as will EOC training and technical assistance programs aimed at training EOC personnel and people involved with poverty groups such as Head Start.

The Food Stamp Program will continue and, like the Homemakers' Program, be taken over by county agencies.

For two days each week a member of the Department of Human Resources Development (new name for the old unemployment office) worked out of the center. This operation will be moved to 1449 Mission Street, San Francisco.

Youths in Probation Programs will continue through other agencies. This program places those youths on probation in various jobs and is funded by the county Probation Department.

Those programs aimed at education will probably be taken over by an assortment of different agencies in an effort to conntinue them.

Emergency medical porgrams will possibly be handled in the future through the Guadalupe Health Clinic located in the Old Daly City Hall at 75 Wellington Avenue.

Project Head Start, which gives some 20 pre-school children from low-income families hot meals, medical and dental care has been funded by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for another year.

Without the Referral Center some think the program will be seriously handicapped because of lack of local area administration.

Some work programs for youth, while undoubtedly feeling the effects of the nationwide cutback, will continue.

Daly City has nine slots now open for work, a City Hall spokesman said. What the effect of the closure of the center will have on this program is not known, as yet.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps, a summer job placement program, has been cut out nationwide, however local businesses are expected to again push for job placement of youth this summer, it was learned.

Regardless of how the myriad services are distributed personnel at the center and those persons who have looked to the office for direction in recent years, predict the effect on thousands of people will be chaotic.

BART Hit in Meet

A sparse audience of less than 100 persons attended Thursday's meeting of the nine-county Bay Area Metropolitan Transportation Commission at the Daly City City Hall.

It was the eleventh in a scheduled series of public hearings designed to attract public input into the transportation needs of the Bay Area.

The majority of those speaking at the meeting directed their criticism at the Bay Area Rapid Transit system.

They informed MTC Commissioner, and San Mateo County Supervisor, Gerald F. Day they wanted no part of the costly rapid transit system.

Burlingame Councilman Irving Amsirup, on behalf of his board, apposed the BART system through his city.

And Harry Mosely of Pacifica had to be interrupted by Day when he diverted his discussion away from the transportation issue and began condemning the Pacifica City Council.

Amstrup said the study of BART would not improve the lifestyle of Burlingame residents, rather "it will downgrade it."

He said the council of that city did not like "anything about the BART plan as it stands today."

The MTC is charged with coming up with a plan for the transportation needs of the Bay Area by June. Two public hearings on the matter are scheduled for May, Commissioner Day explained.

Formed almost two years ago by an act of the legislature, the MTC has control over funding and studies of all transportation and related matters in the nine counties.

In San Mateo County there are nine outstanding issues before the MTC.

These include the San Francisco Airport access, an extension of BART from Daly City to the airport.

The study participants in this are BART and San Francisco and San Mateo counties. This issue is coupled with the BART extension to Santa Clara County now being studied by a consultant team led by Parsons, Brinkerhoff, Tudor and Bechtel engineers.

Citizen input into this study should be directed to the San Mateo County Public Works Department, Day said.

While the rapid transit system down the lenghth of the Peninsula is a long-term study, the extension from Daly City — present terminus of BART — to the airport is considered to be a "10-year issue."

This means it is within the scope of operations to complete within that time span, it was understood.

Another "10-year issue" facing MTC is the almost non-exsistant local transit service in the county.

Such a system is needed to serve both local transit needs and a regional circulation system, experts feel. Again, PBTB along with Wilbur Smith and Associates, are acting as consultants for the study.

The study of local transit, probably busing, is just now getting underway.

Citizens desiring to participate may contact the San Mateo County Transit Dvelopment Board.

Highway Route 380 eastward has the support of all local government bodies. However, the route westward, between Junipero Serra Freeway (IR-280) and Pacifica has divided both communities.

The Division of Highways has been urged by local agencies to push for completion of 380 from Junipero Serra Freeway east to the airport to relieve congestion on downtown San Bruno streets.

Citizen input should be directed to the Division of Highways, it was pointed out.

Rush for 'Shared' US Funds

Telling people a city is the recipient of a federal windfall and has money to give away is like yelling "fire" in a crowded theater — you just don't do it unless you expect to get trampled in the rush.

As an example, earlier this year the federal government announced Daly City's portion of the Revenue Sharing Program would be $353,106.28.

As of Friday, March 23, 1973 — deadline for city department heads and various public groups to file for part of the fund — a total of 37 applications totalling some $1,187,315 had been received.

The requests are broken down into two categories, city manager David Rowe explained to the city council during its regular meeting Monday.

One category covers maintenance and operation of departments and agencies, such as social services for the poor and aged, libraries, public safety and law enforcement, health and even resurfacing of streets.

The second category includes capitol expenditures such as fire fighting equipment, police cameras for security at headquarters, reconstruction of the Vista Grande outflow tunnel and similar public projects.

"Trying to determine who is funded and who isn't will be like trying to play King Solomon," one city official commented.

The council will start reviewing applications at a public hearing in the City Hall Council Chambers on April 16 starting at 8 p.m.

Miss S.S.F. Contest on Saturday

The Miss South San Francisco pageant will be held at Skyline College in San Bruno Saturday night, with eight young ladies competing for the crown.

Lois Eklof is the reigning Miss South San Francisco.

Competing are:

Marie Antoinette Greich, sponsored by A. "Buzz" Haskins, Inc.; Deborah Denise Wenner, Harvis Construction Co.; Rita Suszann Guadalupe Gentry, Wilkinson Construction; Sandra Lee Kleppe, Norman C. Hynding Co.; Tina Celeste McKnight, Arc Electric Co.; Carolyn Jones, Awender Chiropractic offices; Lynn Marie Galeotti, B. Fontana & Sons; Susan Zuckerbrot, Robert and Renaldo Pepi.

The winner will represent South San Francisco in the Miss California pageant at Santa Cruz, according to Al Romine, the local pageant's general chairman.

Student on Recreation Commission

The Daly City City Council Monday appointed the youngest commissioner to the Recreation Board in its history during a regular session at City Hall.

Jim Fusaro, a 20-year-old Skyline College student and volunteer worker with handicapped children at Westmoor High School, was unanimously supported by the council to replace resigned commissioner Ray Forcina.

Forcina, a longtime member of the commission, moved from the area recently and tendered his resignation, effective immediately.

The council commended Forcina for his years of service to the community.

Fusaro has three years to serve to fill out the unexpired term.

The council also reappointed James Howe, Pacific Telephone Company official, to another six year term on the city's Personnel Commission. Howe had served two years on the Board.

Daly City Dump

The Cost of Vandalism

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Vandals have cost the Daly City Scavenger Company more than $5,000 in the past six months at the company's Mussel Rock dump site.

And that cost may have to be passed on to local patrons unless steps are taken immediatley to curb the rising incidence of crime at the site, which has already resulted in work stoppage.

The work stoppage came after vandals tore their way through a corrugated metal roof at the dump site's garage and smashed instruments on vehicles parked inside.

Damage costs ran into the thousands.

In an effort to continue operations at the dump, emergency repairs were hurriedly made by mechanics.

Company President Al Sereni said the equipment ran the risk of burning up without instruments to indicate various functions of the engines, "but we had to keep covering the refuse being brought into the dump."

Three times in the past two months burglars have broken into the site and stolen small gasoline powered engines used to pump water.

Sereni said the small engines are favored by builders of "go-carts."

Police are on the alert for the engines and have the serial numbers, Sereni said.

Two weeks ago, vandals broke into the

New Coastal Planner Set

Former San Mateo and Mountain View planner Michael L. Fischer took office Monday as the executive director for the new North Central Coast Commission.

The commission is one of six created last fall when California voters approved Proposition 20. It is to control coastline development and plan for coastal conservation.

It serves Sonoma, Marin and San Francisco counties.

School Fund Loss Seen In D.C. District

By FRANK LAPIERRE

What was described by the administration of the Jefferson Elementary School District as a "very precarious" preliminary budget was submitted to the board of trustees during its regular meeting in Daly City last week.

Declining student enrollment coupled with the uncertainty of pending legislation concerning funding of educational projects are two of the chief reasons for the pessimisim surrounding the 1973-74 school year budget outline.

Supt. Frank Greenwood said the preliminary budget while based on the "best possible analysis" using facts and figures now available, could result in a number of revisions before the start of the next school year.

The district is now using its reserve money to carry out current programs in the district, it was explained.

Each time a student is "lost," the district loses some $950 in state money on an annual basis. Multiply this by the expected decline in the student enrollment in the coming year and loss is considerable, Greenwood said.

If the district fires a teacher it saves about $10,000 in salary money. At the same time, however, the district suffers the financial loss of some $35,000 from declines in students, according to the superintendent.

Assistant for business administration Roger Barthuli echoed Greenwood's position on the budget, likewise noting the "precarious" position the district was now in.

The district is also losing other monies under Title Two funding programs.

The overall outlook for the district, at present, is not good, Barthuli noted.

Whether the U.S. Supreme Court ruling yesterday on the constitutionality of funding school operations from local property taxes will have any impact on the JESD is not known, Greenwood said.

He said other legislation, including the Juan A. Serrano decision, has not been decided as yet.

The preliminary budget was based on certain data from Senate Bill 90 and other material available, it was explained, using $65 per pupil for a growth factor.

Last year the district started the year with a net balance of some $589,250. This year the net starting balance is projected at less than half that amount — $220,297.

Total income expected was slightly higher than last year at $10,059,205.

The 1972-73 income was $9,884,504.

But the administration cautioned these figures could be revised depending on the outcome of programs pending before the State Legislature.

Estimated spending figures remained steady with some sections within the district actually showing a decline in expenditures, namely in the total capitol outlay category (improvement of buildings down $6,000; books down $15,000).

Daly City councilman McRobert "Mac" Stewart, a lumberman for the White Lumber Company in Daly City, has been appointed by Governor Ronald Reagan to the nine member State Board of Regulation for Professional Engineers. His term expires June 1, 1974. Stewart is one of two "public members" on the commission. He fills the unexpired term of municipal judge Sloan of Los Angeles who resigned his post after being appointed to the bench.

Ocean Swallows Secret of Car

A yellow car seen in the surf off Grey Whale Cove north of Montara early Saturday afternoon disappeared into the ocean depths before it could be determined if anyone was inside.

Sheriff's Sgt. Frank Gordon said the surf action washed the car into deep water at the southern end of Devil's Slide before anyone could get in the water to check on occupancy.

However, he noted, the general area is where many stolen vehicles have been pushed off the roadside bluff into the sea.

Pacifica Police Subdue Suspect

Two Pacifica police officers found themselves under attack Monday when they responded to the lobby of an apartment house on a disturbing the peace call.

When police and security officers tried to subdue James Luke Shaw, 365 Talbot Ave., he began swinging at the officers, they reported, landing a particularly telling blow on Sgt. Dennis Raymond.

When finally taken to the station, he was booked on charges of battery on a police officer, resisting an officer and disturbing the peace.

More About Dump Vandals

building again. That time they scattered food — including eggs and coffee — around, tore up papers, broke furniture and damaged parked equipment.

Periodically, the garage and adjoining office building is used as a target for "sharpshooters." There are bullet holes in doors, walls and roof. Everything from high-powered rifles to shotguns have been fired into the structure.

It is believed that some residents of the area have observed the vandals at work from time to time, but "they just don't want to get involved," Sereni said.

This apathetic attitude just might cost Daly Cityites money unless the culprits are caught and prosecuted, Sereni said.

Insurance rates are climbing "out of sight" because of the vandalism, Sereni said steps are now being taken to install devices to thwart the criminals, however he refused to outline the new burglar guard system.

Sneath Lane Widening Is Approved

Sneath Lane is soon to lose its virginity.

That picturesque, rural, winding, tree-lined roadway (from Junipero Serra to Skyline Boulevard) Monday night was unanimously voted by San Bruno's council for slight straightening and widening.

Despite both written and verbal protests, and no real resident support, the council adopted City Engineer Leo Van Dusen's recommendation to budget $545,000 in gas tax monies for the project. No specific plan has been adopted.

Mayor George Corey called the objections to the widening "an emotional issue" and said no one had given substantial reasons why the work should not be done. He called the road "a serious traffic safety problem."

Although the widening, to two 12-foot lanes and 8-foot shoulders, is estimated to cost $500,000, the county will pick up half the cost.

This also bothers some of the opponents to the widening. They see county participation as eventual connection of Sneath Lane to Pacifica's Fassler Avenue. This contention has repeatedly been denied.

According to Van Dusen, the street has not been paved for at least 18 years. The road, that once followed the land contours to serve Sneath Ranch in the late 1800's, has, however, been continually patched.

"The street department is scared to death to stop and repair those holes," said the city engineer.

Van Dusen pointed out that the existing street is too narrow, of limited capacity, having a steep grade with no right side clearance provisions and no intersection safety control.

His proposal would lower the grade to 10 per cent, provide verticle and horizontal sight distance and have shoulders for emergency parking control and right hand clearance.

Other than staff, the only proponents of the widening were Henry Hein, planning commissioner and former traffic safety commissioner, Traffic Committee Chairman Dan Comparato and Ralph Corral, whose position fluxuated.

The project would require the removal of upwards of 500 trees. Van Dusen said most, if not more ("of a native variety"), would be replanted. He said $15,000 is budgeted for this purpose.

One of the first to speak out openly against the widening was Planning Commissioner Bill Cox. At the Monday night meeting he cited accident statistics previously mentioned by Lt. Hugh Fraser, head of the Police Department's Traffic Division.

Cox's interpretation of statis-

Court Fight on Bruno Vote

San Bruno's council in a 3-2 decision Mondy voted the city into a courtroom showdown on the constitutionality of its revoking a use permit of a body shop operator.

Jerry Anolik, operator of Bart's Auto Shop, 236 El Camino Real, stands to lose his livelihood, unless his attorney brother, Alexander Anolik, can prove his case in court.

Attorney Anolik vowed to fight the issue in the courts. "I plan to bring an action," he promised outside the council chambers. "It's unconstitutional to do it."

The issue is whether Jerry Anolik's operation should be closed down because it is an "eyesore." The city's planning department and planning commissioners contend that he has failed to comply with all the conditions of his use permit.

It's not the first time the operation has been cited, and Anolik brought before city bodies to defend his lack of properly maintaining the neatness of the area.

This was emphasized by City Attorney Joe Galligan. "Only when he (Jerry Anolik) stood to lose (his use permit in the past) did he agree to what he had originally agreed to do," said Galligan.

"This is expensive and time consuming (to use the high paid city staff as watchdogs and enforcers). "There's not much you can do in this case but revoke it," he said.

On Galligan's advice, Council members Neil Christal and Marge Kozkowski, and Mayor George Corey, voted to revoke the permit effective June 1.

Councilman John Barnard argued strenuously "to salvage this in a better way than spending a lot in legal fees." Councilman Tony Governale also voted against it.

Barnard suggested that perhaps Anolik would agree to posting a "tow-away" bond in a "sizable" amount which would allow the city to remove cars that Anolik had failed to move. The body shop operator would then be billed.

Part of the use permit conditions say that a five-foot fence should be erected to screen wrecked cars from view along El Camino Real. A fence does exist, but back from the sidewalk, allowing violation of another condition. That is that no parts or dismantled cars are to be stored outside the building or fenced area.

Galligan again took exception. He did not disagree that it was a bad proposal, only that it should have been pursued much earlier than at this point.

Earlier attempts by City Planner Jack Mulqueeney to approach the body shop operator and discuss with him the alleged violations resulted in Mulqueeney being "very forcefully" removed from the premises.

Alexander Anolik apologized for his brother's "lack of tact, which there was a lot of," but said "we do not revoke because of lack of diplomacy."

Barnard said, "I'd like to believe in human nature. I'd really like to see the gentleman given one more chance."

Governale asked for a postponement for 30 days to give Mulqueeney and Galligan an opportunity to come up with "an air tight" recommendation to make Anolik comply.

San Bruno council Monday night routinely denied and referred to the city attorney nine claims against the city.

All but one was for flood damages in South San Francisco as the result of the overflowing of Colma Creek shortly after the first of the year.

The city of San Bruno is cited for the claims since it is part of the Colma Creek Flood Control District.

Ironically, one of the claimants is San Bruno Planning Commissioner Lynn Buxton, who is in business as Lubrivan Company in South San Francisco.

Of the nine claims, only two asked for specific damages, one for $100,000 and the other for $14,315. The seven others (including Buxton's) are "amounts now unknow."

The $100,000 claim was for alleged "negligent enforcement of applicable building code requirements," filed on behalf of David and Beverly Thomas, of 270 Emaron Drive, San Bruno.

In the claim, it is alleged that the city was negligent in inspection and related duties affecting development of a residential homesite. The result says the claims as a leaky roof, cracks in the floor and settling of the foundation.

The $14,315 claim is on behalf of the Treasure Island Trailer Court in South San Francisco. It included an itemized accounting of damage and repair necessary because of Colma Creek flooding.

Student, 20, Appointed to D.C. Board

The Daly City Council Monday appointed the youngest commissioner to the Recreation Board in its history during a regular session at City Hall.

Jim Fusaro, a 20-year-old Skyline College student and volunteer worker with handicapped children at Westmoor High School, was unanimously supported by the council to replace resigned commissioner Ray Forcina.

Forcina, a long-time member of the commission, moved from the area recently and tendered his resignation effective immediately.

The council commended Forcina for his years of service to the community.

Fusaro has three years to serve to fill out the unexpired term.

The council also reappointed James Howe, Pacific Telephone Company official, to another six-year term on the city's Personnel Commission. Howe had served two years on the board.

Plea in S.S.F. Slaying Case

Robert Kingston, 57, South San Francisco limousine operator charged with murder of 19-year-old Skyline College student Lorin Peter Gava, pleaded not guilty Monday in the Northern Judicial District court of Judge Charles Becker.

Judge Becker set April 16, 9:30 p.m. as the time for Kingston's preliminary hearing on the charge. The judge set bail at $50,000. So far, at presstime, Kingston had not yet made bail.

Joseph Gruber of South San Francisco, had been appointed Kingston's attorney.

'Pigeon Drop' Nets $2,000

A 66-year-old South San Francisco woman was the victim of a successful "pigeon drop" Thursday. She lost $2000, police said.

The incident happened about 2:30 p.m. Thursday at the San Bruno Tanforan Park mall. Police give this rundown:

A young woman, described as about 25, standing 5-foot-4, and wearing a two-piece beige suit approached the victim. The young woman used the name Karen.

She told the elderly lady that she had a friend in a predicament. This friend had found a folder containing pornographic photographs, betting slips and $9,000 in cash.

The friend, the victim was told, was talking to an attorney in his Tanforan office. Police note that there are no law offices at the shopping center.

A little later the friend returns. She was described as about 30, with a white sweater, white blouse and multi-print skirt. The name she used was Sheila.

This woman brought additional information: that the pornographic photos had "false" backs and behind each was a $1,000 bill, bringing the total find to $37,000.

As is the case in pigeon drop situations, the victim was told she could share in the find if she put up some "faith money."

$25 Million Plans For Route 380

The State Division of Highways is advertising for bids on one of the biggest highway construction projects ever undertaken in the Bay Area — part of the Portola Freeway (Interstate Route 380).

Interstate 380, when completed in 1977, will extend east from the Junipero Serra Freeway (Interstate 280) toward the Bayshore Freeway (101), where it will swing south to parallel Route 101 until it ends at the airport passenger terminal interchange.

The first leg of Interstate 380, from 280 to just west of El Camino Real in San Bruno, is already built. Now being completed is an overhead over the railroad tracks at Huntington Avenue.

The $25-million contract advertised on March 19 is one of the largest in the history of the Division of Highways' District 4. It will extend the Portola Freeway across El Camino toward the Bayshore, then south to just past the San Bruno Avenue interchange. Plans include an easterly connector of 380 crossing the Bayshore to serve the airport facilities there and industrial and commercial development on South Airport Boulevard; the 380-101 interchange; and reconstruction of the San Bruno Avenue interchange.

Later contracts will construct viaducts over South Airport Boulevard, connect 380 to the north airport access road, complete the Portola Freeway from San Bruno Avenue to the passenger terminal, widen the Bayshore, rebuild the terminal interchange, and construct an overcrossing over Route 101 connecting the airport to its western property.

Advertising a highway construction project is official notice to contractors that the Division of Highways is soliciting bids on a job. Bids will be accepted until May 16. The two months of lead time are necessary for construction firms to study the project specifications before submitting a bid.

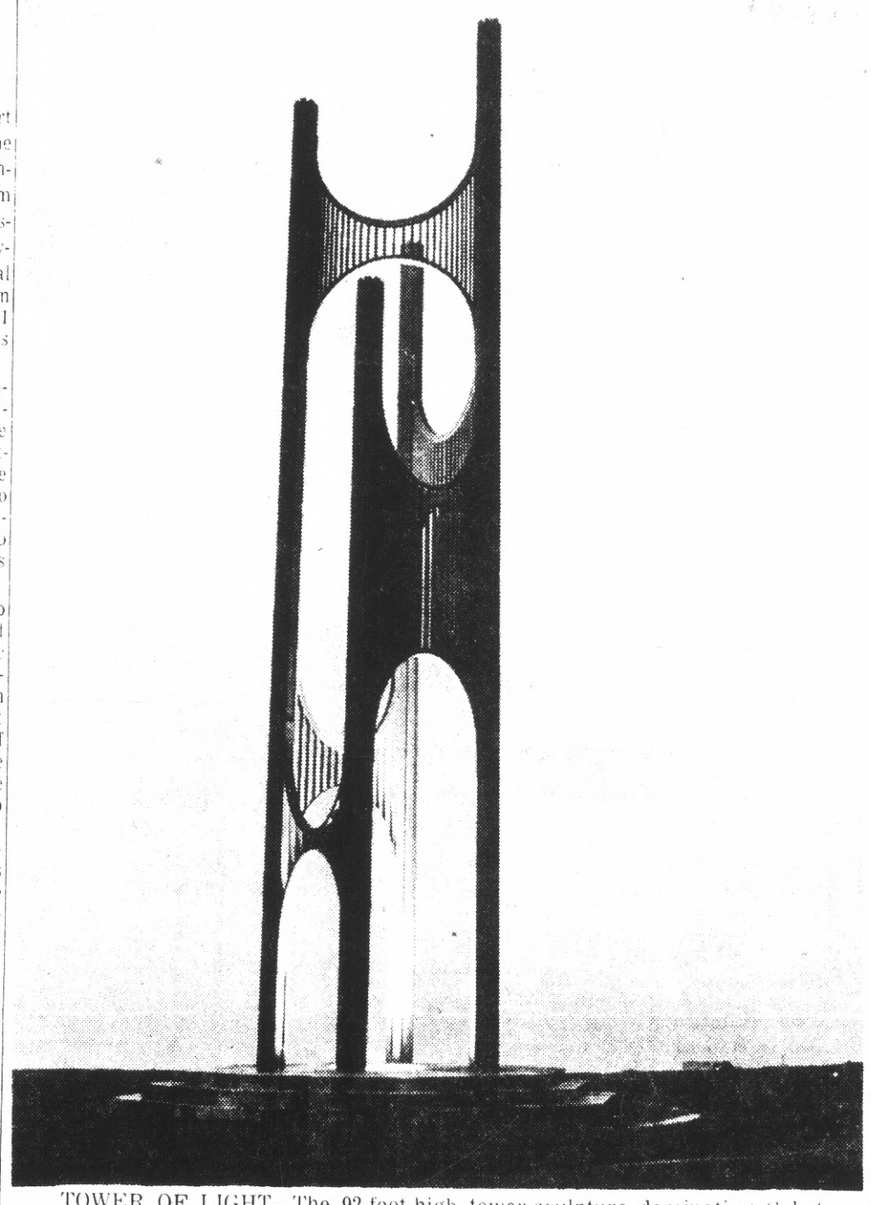
This project is the latest step in efforts by the Division of Highways to get through traffic off San Bruno Avenue, according to Jim Rae, district design engineer. He estimates that when the completed section of freeway is open to traffic in late 1975, some 70 per cent of the congestion clogging San Bruno Avenue will be relieved.

Project engineer for this section of the Portola Freeway is Paul Hensley, who lives in the Pacific Heights area of San Bruno with his wife and two young daughters. A San Bruno resident for three years, Hensley has spent the last eight years working on projects in the San Bruno-San Mateo area, and he is familiar with the community, its problems and its concerns.

In an effort to familiarize the public with the Portola Freeway, the Division of Highways put together an exhibit containing a scale model of Interstate 380. For six weeks during February and March, more than 15,000 shoppers looked it over. Of these, some 10,000 had a chance to talk to Hensley or one of his squad members, to ask questions and make their feelings about the project known.

Later on this spring, the exhibit will be on display at San Bruno City Hall and in the passenger terminal of San Francisco International Airport.

Work is continuing on the environmental studies for the portion of the Portola Freeway between the Junipero Serra Freeway and Pacifica.



TOWER OF LIGHT—The 92-foot-high tower-sculpture dominating Cabot, Cabot and Forbes Industrial Park in South San Francisco was lighted last week to mark the start of a lighting awards program sponsored by the South San Francisco Beautification Committee. City officials and industrial leaders were on hand for the ceremony. (Post Photo)

S.S.F. Slaying Case To Superior Court

Northern Judicial District Municipal Judge Walter Capaccioli Thursday remanded Robert Marine to San Mateo County Superior Court to stand trial for the slaying of his divorced wife on a Colma street last October 6.

Marine is charged with shooting his ex-wife five times with a .38-caliber revolver after driving her home from the now-closed White Front Store in South San Francisco where the pair had worked.

The accused murderer was arrested in Santa Monica last January on a warrant issued by Broadmoor police charging him with the October murder.

Although the death weapon was never found, an expended bullet fired from the same gun that shot Miss Kathy Zyrbrowski, according to expert testimony at Thursday's preliminary hearing was allegedly found in Marine's parked car by Broadmoor Police Lieutenant Merrill Baxley.

Representing Marine is Daly City attorney William Schumacher.

Deputy district attorney Eric Ebbel presented evidence against the accused at the preliminary hearing before Judge Capaccioli.

Friends of Daly City Library Open Campaign

To open their annual membership campaign, members of The Friends of the Daly City Library this Saturday, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Sunday, 12 to 5 p.m., will man a booth in the Serramonte Shopping Center Mall.

Mrs. William Bagnall, membership chairman, is in charge of the booth, which will serve to enroll new members and to sell handcrafted bookmarks. Many of the bookmarks, which are being made by members, are from original designs.

The booth will be decorated under the supervision of Mrs. Albert Teglia.

The Friends of the Daly City Library, a member of the Friends of the California Libraries and the California Library Association, was founded 17 years ago.

Dues, which are in the form of minimum contributions, are nominal and are supportive of The Friends' activities. There are four classes of membership: Individual, family, firm or organization and patron.

The Friends offer as a community service at no charge each year a series of day-time book reviews; and this year Mrs. F. Lincoln Walter, book review chairman, scheduled two reviews at night at the request of business and professional men and women. Following the day-time book reviews, reviewers are honored at a no-host luncheon held in a local restaurant.

The annual meeting, to be held May 24, will feature a Spanish heritage program under chairmanship of Mrs. James Hough.

May 11-12 will be the dates of The Friends' annual Used Book Fair to be held at the Westlake Shopping Mall. A large committee is actively working on plans for this community event.

Donations of used books records and sheet music may be left in depositories at any of the three Daly City public libraries. Members may assist book pricing Chairman Mrs. Alvin Schwarzbach and her co-chairman, Mrs. Helen Nerbovig, with the pricing of wares. A smaller sale is offered in the fall.

The group also encourages gifts in honor of and in memoriam, solicits gifts for projects, and has established a building fund.

In the past, The Friends have helped establish collections of 8mm films, circulating phonograph records, framed pictures of fine art, and large print books. Many other gifts have been presented to the library, including in recent years a dry-mount press for preserving noteworthy papers and a documents, a line-o-scribe machine for making signs, and $300 for Spanish language books.

The Friends help provide workers for library projects.

Members of the community are invited to join The Friends. Dues paid now will extend to June, 1974. Besides the booth at Serramonte, application blanks may be obtained at branch libraries and from membership Chairman Mrs. Bagnall, 100 Lincoln Avenue.

Damien Switchboard Calls For New Volunteers

Damien Switchboard, Daly City, is in need of volunteers to operate the 24-hour telephone service. Applicants may apply in person to 45 Southgate Avenue, Daly City, or telephone 992-5660 and should be prepared to commit themselves to:

1. Take the 17-hour "Initial Training Session (starting April 4).
2. Participate in approximately 15 hours of "On the Phone Training."
3. Take a four-hour per week telephone shift, after training.
4. Attend one staff meeting per month.

The initial training concentrates on communication skills, with the training goal being, to help the volunteer to:

1. Help callers to see their problem clearly by being a good listener.
2. Find ways to discuss alternatives non-judgementally.
3. Make good referrals.

Training schedule is: April 4—"Model of Communication," a learning tool for those new to the study of communication dynamics.

April 10—"Parent Child Communication Skills," exercises in active listening, detours to good communication.

April 11 — "Crisis Techniques," evaluation and responses to callers who may or may not demand immediate attention.

April 17—"Logic of Expressing Feelings," exercises in knowing and expressing your feelings.

April 18—"Drugs—Venereal Diseases—First Aid."

Subject areas covered in this session are mental health, runaways, suicide and crisis, sex oriented calls and drugs.

Damien Switchboard is a member of the Peninsula Switchboard Federation, a group of eight switchboards on the Peninsula whose purposes are to share information among themselves on construction and improvement of swtichboards, to establish minimum criteria for responsible service, to increase community awareness of the function and services of switchboards and to deal with matters of responsibility and accountability to communities served.

Services provided by switchboards in general, fall into category of rap, referral and-or crisis.

Some reasons for calling a switchboard:

1. Time — Never need an appointment, available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.
2. Referrals—56 index categories, ranging from abortion to X-Ray.
3. Anonymity — Caller need never be known to the switchboard volunteer and may converse on any subject.
4. Cost—It's free; no charge.

Damien Switchboard, now in its fourth year of operation, is funded under contract by Mental Health Services of San Mateo County.

2 Brothers Nabbed for Narcotics

Two brothers were arrested Saturday by San Bruno police on various narcotics charges after officers responded to reports of a loud party at 149 Santa Helena Avenue.

Booked were David L. Greathouse, 22, and James E. Greathouse, 20. Both were charged with possession for sale of marijuana, maintaining a place for marijuana and possession of narcotics paraphernalia. In addition, James Greathouse was booked for possession of dangerous drugs.

Police said they responded to the four-room apartment at about 11 p.m., and their presence sent numerous persons scurrying to find an exit. The names of eight teen-agers were logged by police, who apparently felt there was not strong enough evidence to arrest them.

Inside the apartment, officers found 85 plastic bags of what appeared to be marijuana in a cardboard box in a closet. Next to it was a fully loaded semi-automatic shotgun.

Also found were a scale with initials "O.H.S." engraved on it, two plastic bags containing pills, believed to be amphetamines, and two pipes normally used to smoke marijuana, police said.

Four Men Struck By Car at Bruno

Four persons were injured Wednesday — two critically — when a car struck four persons who were assisting the victim of a previous accident.

The scene of the accident was the downhill lanes of Interstate 280 near the Crystal Springs Road overcrossing in San Bruno, where there are frequent one-car accidents.

According to the California Highway Patrol, a foreign-made luxury car driven by Peter Stein, 34, of Los Altos overturned on a downhill curve of the rain-soaked freeway.

Three drivers stopped to help him. Emanuele E. Vanni, 92 Gambetta Drive, Daly City, parked his lumber truck on the center divider and pulled Stein out of the overturned car. Frederick J. Scheurer, 71 North Ellsworth Avenue, San Mateo, and James Harvey, 207 Mastick Avenue, San Bruno, also stopped their cars on the shoulder and came to the aid of Vanni. Vanni then returned to shut off the engine of the upside-down car.

Then, a car driven by Pamela Colman of 10 Falkirk Lane, Hillsborough, came along and struck the three men, officers said.

In the intensive care unit of Mary's Help Hospital, in critical condition, are Scheurer and a fourth pedestrian Stanley Zulanick of Los Altos. They underwent surgery last night and were considered to be in critical condition today.

Two other men, Vanni and Harvey, were treated for multiple injuries and released.

Officers said Pamela Colman was not injured.

The accident was under investigation today, according to the Highway Patrol.

S.F. Airport Landing Fees Are Increased

San Francisco International Airport commissioners approved a sharp increase in airport landing fees last week — increasing the current average of 25.7 cents per 1000 pounds of landing weight to an average of 38.4 cents.

The commissioners unanimously agreed to increase the landing fees after financial experts said that the higher fees are necessary to pay for expansion of the airport.

Providing the new rates are approved by the Board of Supervisors, the cost of landing a 747 after July 1 will increase from $145 to $217 and the cost of landing a DC-8 will go from $61 to $92.

The higher fees will increase airport landing fee revenues from $5.8 million this year to $9.7 million in the next fiscal year, according to William J. Dwyer, acting airport director who was formally named director yesterday.

Dwyer also recommended that the commission increase rent on space in terminal buildings at the airport from an average of $5.79 per square foot to about $11.85, but no action was taken at the meeting.

The Airport Commission, however, did approve a basic bond resolution which will allow the airport to sell revenue bonds to finance its $388 million expansion program.

The commissioners also unanimously approved a 40-year lease agreement with United Air Lines for its huge western maintenance base at the airport.

Under the new agreement, also subject to approval by the supervisors, United will pay rent of $561,237 per year for use of 127 acres at the airport. The present rent is $146,000.

The new landing fee schedule was endorsed yesterday by Alfred Kaiser of United, speaking for all the airlines, and by the Downtown Association.

Murder Rap For Girl in S.S.F. Death

An April 3 hearing has been set for a 17-year-old South San Francisco girl who was charged with murdering her 18-year-old boyfriend two weeks ago.

The victim, James Stephen Borders, a South San Francisco high school senior, was reported to have asked his girl friend to shoot him with a shotgun in the basement of his grandparents' home, on Larch Avenue, where he lived.

The April 3 jurisdictional hearing will be conducted by Juvenile Judge Lyle Edson, at Hillcrest. It will be for the purpose of establishing whether juvenile court would have any basis for further action on the case.

A March 14 detention hearing resulted in Juvenile Court Referee Anthony Lavoi ordering that the girl be held in custody at Chope General Hospital. However, she has been temporarily transferred to Stockton State Hospital.

Millbrae Anti-Smoke Ordinance Introduced

Millbrae's (puff) anti-smoking ordinance (puff-puff) was introduced by unanimous vote of the City Council last week.

This is not a bit of puffery, Mayor Bernard Esser assured as he looked somewhat guilty at the cigarette ashes in his ashtray.

The ordinance will come up for its second public reading April 5 — and will become official law, 30 days thereafter, on May 5 if adopted.

Mayor Esser added nervously — as did City Administrator Richard E. Watson (another smoker), "It's easy to quit — we've done it lots of times — and maybe the meetings will be shorter. . . . Have to look at the bright side, you know."

The law as drafted by City Atty. Frank Guillio is limited as follows; only in public meeting rooms, only when public meetings are held, and only when more than ten people are in attendance — UNLESS someone in a public meeting (even if only five or seven people are present) objects. In that case the law goes into immediate effect.

What happens when someone in a public meeting in a public meeting room in a gathering of more than ten people pulls out a cigarette and starts puffing away . . .?

"Violators" of the anti-smoking law simply may be ejected frm the public meeting room by a sergeant-at-arms, at the request of the presiding officer.

Any smoking in the council anteroom? Well, that's kind of a moot point, officials said.

"Hopefully, during recesses, smokers will go outside the building," Watson explained.

The idea was the inspiration of Councilman Barney Spera, one of the four other non-smokers on the Council.

Planner Quits at Pacifica

Pacifica is losing one of its planners — and he is not being replaced.

He is William VanBeckum, who has been serving since 1971 in the long-range planning department.

Lester H. Clark, director of community development, said that VanBeckum's loss will seriously cripple the ability of his department in its long-range planning functions.

"We are usually too busy fighting brush-fires," he said, "to undertake long-range planning for our community."

With his job coming to an end, VanBeckum has secured a post with the San Jose Planning Department.

Two Burglaries Reported in SSF

Two burglaries, with losses totaling $1,250, were reported Sunday by the South San Francisco Police Department.

Janyce Pinna, of Carter Way, told police that a burglar had apparently broken into her garage, taking $655 worth of valuables, including two 10-speed bicycles, torque wrench, saber saw and other assorted tools.

Calvin Burns told police that his car, parked by his home on Duval Drive, was broken into with $595 worth of tools taken, including assorted power tools and accessories.

Sex Bias Charged at Post Office

An investiagtion has begun into charges of discrimination at the Pacifica Post Office — but so far, little definite has arisen out of these charges.

Frank Flint, union shop steward, said that eight out of the nine woman letter carriers have signed a petition charging inequitable distribution of overtime, harrassfent, and a general management policy of not wanting to hire women.

Named in the complaint was Postmaster Kenneth O. Strom, who said that no such petition was filed with him.

"I'm unaware of the complaint," he said.

Flint said that the petition was the first step, to be followed by presenting evidence and testimony. The investigation is being carried on by the equal opportunity coordinator of the Western Regional Postal Service.

George Sanders, postal communications officer, said that so far, the nature of the complaint is not too clear but is being investigated. The investigators has visited Pacifica once already, and the investigation will continue "as long as anyone has any input."

He stressed that the charges were not filed under the regular grievance processes which involve the union agreement but, under the general complaint procedure.

Illegal Gun Purchase Is Charged

Two young women were arrested by Treasury agents Thursday on charges of illegal "wholesale purchase of guns and ammunition".

Miss Marilyn J. Buck, 25, 100 El Campo Drive, South San Francisco, a blonde technician, and Miss Rosemary A. McFadden, 27, an accountant from San Francisco, were arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Richard Goldsmith who ordered them held on $25,000 bond.

The Treasury Department said Miss McFadden used false identification to buy five automatic rifles and shotguns and 16 boxes of ammunition. Miss Buck was accused of buying three boxes of ammunition using false identification.

Prosecutor Janet Aitken said Miss McFadden was "engaged in the wholesale purchase of guns and ammunition" and Miss Buck was also "deeply involved."

Accidental Gun Wound

San Brunan David Morgan Allava probably will be more conscious of safety features of firearms — when tne bandage comes off his left hand.

The 16-year-old, of 124 El Avenue, accidentally shot himself in the hand Thursday while demonstrating the various safety features of a .45-caliber Colt automatic handgun, police said.

According to the police report, Allava was injured in the left hand, about one-and-a-half inches below his left thumb.

One of the safety features of the weapon is that when the barrel of the gun is pushed backward about one-quarter inch, the weapon cannot be fired, police said.

Allava was taken to Kaiser Hospital, South San Francisco, treated and released, according to the police.

Girl Scout Week will end this weekend and the members of North Peninsula troops are inviting the public to view and participate in Girl Scouts in Action Saturday in the Hillside Mall in San Mateo.

The day long event will be staged in celebration of the sixty first anniversary of Girl Scouting and will feature displays, games, fun and a variety of exhibits.

Families with girls approaching Brownie age especially will want to take their offspring to the Hillsdale mall for a preview peek at all the scouting program has to offer in the way of fun and learning experiences.

THERE WON'T be an empty seat on either bus when the two buses chartered by the North Peninsula Auxiliary for the Florence Crittenton Home leave Westlake Sunday morning bound for Carson City's New Ormsby House.

Mrs. Charles Poggio, chairman of the fund raiser, reports that there is not one single $8 ticket left to sell almost a week before the departure time!

Auxiliary members and their guests and friends will have luncheon in the Ormsby House, enjoy the game rooms and sightsee about the capital of Nevada before they start home.

Kenneth Dandridge, a senior at Serramonte High school is the proud holder of the Young Californian Medallion for bravery and Service following special presentation ceremonies in the office of Gov. Ronald Reagan one week ago today.

Wedding Bells

San Bruno is the first address for John Robert Proctor and his bride, the former Patricia Ann Munday, who exchanged vows earlier this month at Valley United Presbyterian Church in Portola Valley.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Munday of Redwood City and Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Proctor of Menlo Park. For her wedding, Patricia wore a floor-length gown with a nylon organza skirt and a cotton Venise lace bodice. A nylon Empire dress of blue and white daisy design was worn by her sister, Linda Munday, the maid of honor. Similar costumes in green and yellow daisy design were worn by bridesmaids Terry Frank and Lynn O'Brien.

John asked Emerson Darling of Clovis to be his best man. Guests were seated by Robert Walton and Bruce Lloyd of Los Altos.

Patricia was graduated from Notre Dame High School and California State University at San Jose where she earned her bachelor's and master's degrees. Her husband is an alumnus of Menlo-Atherton High School and SJS where he is now a candidate for a master's degree.

John has one sister, Maryann Brodie. He and his bride honeymooned in Florida.

Weil-Fambrini

The South San Francisco home of Mr. and Mrs. Julio Fambrini was the setting for the reception which followed the marriage of their son, Dennis, and Francine Weil.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Weil of San Francisco. She and Dennis exchanged vows at Our Lady of Visitation Church in San Francisco.

Mrs. Russell Roselle of Belmont served as the matron of honor. Janice Fambrini of South San Francisco, the bridegroom's sister, was the secondary attendant.

Dennis asked Ronald Smith of South San Francisco to be his best man. Guests were seated by Rene Weil of San Francisco, brother of the bride.

The new matron was graduated from Notre Dame High School in San Francisco and is now employed in San Bruno. Her husband is an alumnus of Serra High School and the College of San Mateo. He is employed in Burlingame.

The couple is now living in Daly City.

Ted Moore to Head Corporate Heart Drive

Ted S. Moore of Millbrae, long time Peninsula banker, now assistant manager of the Mid-Peninsula office of the Bank of Tokyo of California in Los Altos, has been appointed Corporate Gift Chairman for the 1973 San Mateo County Heart Fund Drive, announced Frank Lindstrom, over-all Campaign Chairman.

In accepting this position, Moore said, "Heart disease is a major American problem, both personal and economic. While it is impossible to measure the emotional costs of heart attack, the economic cost in terms of lost man-hours of production and replacement of highly trained, key men are calculable and extremely expensive to industry."

Terra Nova Student Honor

Roberta Croco and Jeffrey Simons, Terra Nova High School seniors, have been awarded scholarships by South San Francisco Elks Lodge 2091 in their annual "Most Valuable Student" contest.

Both students will receive cash awards applicable to the college or university of their choice.

Food Crisis Now Over

It appears that the immediate food crisis for some Coastside farm worker families is over and the Committee for Coastside Crisis Relief has sent its thanks to the public.

After an outpouring of publicity and television coverage last week, the CCR found itself loaded with food donations for perhaps 50 Mexican farm families, most on very low incomes now because of the Brussels sprout and other crop reductions and failures this year due to the severity of the winter, which also has delayed planting.

The committee met last Friday to assess its position and found "that the extent of the farm workers' immediate problems were not as extensive as originally estimated," according to Rev. Bob Hardman of the Community Methodist Church in Half Moon Bay, committee chairman.

Present food donations seem to be sufficient, so no more are needed, but the committee has expressed its "gratitude and appreciation," Hardman said.

Hardman called the public response "overwhelming."

Another facet of the farm worker's life, housing, also was pointed out to visitors by the committee last week. Hardman noted that "Although there are continuing problems in Coastside agriculture, such as the acute lack of sufficient housing for needed farm workers, the food problem now seems resolved."

Officer Bill Books Aid Children in Daly City

Primary grade students in Daly City area schools have a new teacher in the classroom. He's "Officer Bill" of the Daly City Police Department.

The Department is out to inform children about the police officer and his job through use of a uniformed officer who visits each classroom with visual aids, a carefully worded talk geared to the children's level of understanding, coloring books and an "Officer Bill Classroom Award."

In a friendly "Let's get acquainted" manner, the officer talks about his uniform, job and duty, his family, important safety rules for children, respect for parents and teachers, community and law and order.

The visual aid flip chart, the coloring books and the Officer Bill Classroom awards were purchased through a Police Community Relations and Speakers Bureau grant awarded the department by the California Council on Criminal Justice.

The program is being brought to children as a public service.

Through the Officer Bill Program, youngsters from kindergarten through third grade learn about rules governing society and their responsibility to obey these rules. They learn about safety and good citizenship in school, on the playground, at home and they learn the policeman is really their friend, Lt. Phil LaBruzzo said.

The officer instructor, in words as simple as A.B.C., tells the youngsters why they must avoid strangers and refuse to get into cars with persons they do not know; to always be polite, play fairly and stay away from dangerous places.

"If you need help, tell a policeman — he will help you" is one of the important messages brought to the children by Officer Bill.

A visit to the police car and demonstration of the police equipment is part of the program.

At the end of the classroom visit, Officer Bill hands each student a copy of the Officer Bill coloring book which, when colored by youngsters, reinforces the message brought them by Officer Bill.

Children are encouraged, through this program to refer to all officers as Officer Bill.

Approximately 5,000 children in kindergarten through third grade come in contact with Officer Bill each school year.

The program has been acclaimed as successful by both students and school staff and the results are becoming apparent to police officers in their daily work.

OFFICER TERRY Hanebeck functions as "Officer Bill" as he speaks with children in school.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Looking through my recipes I found this one with the following notation, "good, makes large casserole".

Checking through the ingredients I see that I could have added, "inexpensive."

BARBECUE BEANS

- 1 pound ground beef
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- ½ cup sliced onion
- ½ cup chopped celery
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 can tomato sauce
- ½ cup water
- 2 Tablespoons wine vinegar
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon thyme
- 1 Tablespoon brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 large can pork and beans, 2½ size

Brown the meat, pour off some of the fat, add the fourth cup chopped green pepper, half cup each celery and onion and minced garlic clove. Cook until vegetables are tender. Combine the one can tomato sauce, half cup water, two tablespoons vinegar and stir in one teaspoon each dry mustard and thyme, the tablespoon brown sugar and teaspoon salt. Add to meat mixture and simmer for 5 minutes. Mix in the large can pork and beans and pour into 1½ quart casserole. Bake uncovered n 350-degree oven for 45 minutes.

CORN AND PORK CASSEROLE

- 1 pound pork sausage links
- 3 Tablespoons sausage drippings
- 3 Tablespoons flour
- 1½ cups milk
- 1 can whole kernel corn
- 2 Tablespoons chopped green pepper
- 1 cup cracker crumbs
- 2 Tablespoons drippings for crumbs

Fry the pound sausage links until lightly browned. Remove from skillet and pour off all but three tablespoons fat. (Note: reserve two more tablespoons drippings to mix with crumbs for topping.)

To the three tablespoons fat in skillet add the three tablespoons flour and blend. Slowly add the one and one-half cups milk, stirring as you add. Cook until thickened, stirring. Add the one can corn and two tablespoons finely chopped green pepper.

Place one-half cup crumbs in bottom of lightly greased two-quart casserole. Add half the creamed mixture and most the sausae, the rest of creamed mixture. Mix the remaining crumbs with the two tablespoons drippings and spread over casserole, arrange remaining sausage over top.

Bake in 350-degree oven 30 minutes. Serves 4 to 5.

This bar cookie is a fruity combination — apricots, raisins and crushed pineapple.

vAI RICOT CHEWS

- ½ cup finely cut dried apricots
- ½ cup raisins
- one-third cup water
- 1 cup all purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon soda
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ cup crushed pineapple, drained
- ½ cup shopped walnuts
- Confectioners' sugar

Oven 350 Degrees.

In large saucepan, combine the one half cup each apricots and raisins and the one-third cup water. Cook over low heat, stirring occasiinally, until water is absorbed. Cool slightly. Add the one cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon soda, one cup sugar, 2 eggs, one tablespoon lemon juice, one-half cup each crushed pineapple and walnuts. Blend well. Spread in greased 9-inch square pan. Bake 350-degree oven 35 to 40 minutes. While warm cut into bars. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. 24 bars.

JESD Trustee Candidates: Statements, Backgrounds

ALBERT COLLET, seeking re-election

First of Two Parts

Incumbents Dorothy Adams and Albert Collett are candidates seeking re-election to the governing board of the Jefferson Elementary School District, which serves the Daly City-Colma area of the county.

Their backgrounds and statements follow in staff reports.

Dorothy D. Adams is an incumbent on the Jefferson Elementary School Board, is a homeowner in Daly City since 1959 and has a daughter in intermediate school. She is 46.

She said the new freedom granted to local school boards by the Legislature, including local selection of textbooks and programs, places the responsibility for the improvement of education directly on local boards of trustees.

"We can no longer depend on state and county offices to develop our curricula because they have been given a new set of responsibilities. As in any coming of age, we no longer have to do as we are told, but we had better do something," Mrs. Adams said.

HER PLATFORM is based on fiscal responsibility to the citizens.

Restricted tax rates for special purposes have been all but abolished and the overall rate may not be incrrased by the local board by more than 15 percent without going to an election. Larger allocations from state and federal sources have been promised, but are as yet not a reality, she explained.

"The Legislature is presently considering further departures from the familiar system of school management," Mrs. Adams said. "The present restrictive Education Code allows local boards to undertake only such activities as are specifically delegated by the state.

"Local boards may be authorized to conduct any program not explicitly prohibited under the new permissive code approved by the electorate last November. Currently, collective bargaining rights for public employees, including teachers, are expected to be enacted in the very near future," she said.

If the new system is to be used in a positive way to improve education, Mrs. Adams thinks, local school boards must secure a commitment to that goal from both the community and the staff.

"WITH SUCH strong and diverse interests placed in close competition, more than a passive cooperation will be required. Without the active participation of all factions, the right of children to an education may be lost in the shuffle," she said.

DOROTHY ADAMS, asking another term

In the face of this, Mrs. Adams said she could not understand "why I am soliciting the responsibility of such a difficult task, except that I believe that free public education is the keystone of a free society; and I am most unalterably dedicated to its preservation."

Albert Collett is an incumbent on the JESD board. He is a native of San Francisco and attended Lowell High School, S.F. City College and is a U.S. Navy veteran, serving in World War Two.

Collett is a homeowner in the St. Francis Heights section, where he lives with his wife and two children.

Collett has been an insurance auditor for the past 20 years and was recently elected to the chairmanship of the Northern California Insurance Auditors Association. He is also a member of St. Andrews Church and has served as a teacher in the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine. Beofre the formation of St. Andrew's, Collett was a member of the Holy Angels parish where he joined the Holy Angel's Men's Club.

OTHER activities Collett is a member of, include the Ben Franklin and Daniel Webster P-TA's and district chairman for the Boy Scout membership drive. Also as a Junior Achievement advisor.

As a candidate for the district, Collett contends that the JESD "is an excellent school district," he said.

Collett cites as evidence his experience with the children of the district and their parents. And he asks for support from those who believe their children are receiving the best education the district can afford.

He would continue to try to solve problems the district faces and believes his experience over the last four years gives him a knowledge necessary to reach solutions.

Collett says his efforts will be toward bringing the entire district increasingly closer to the goal of an excellent education for all children. He said he believes in the total community concept.

Terra Nova Topics

By DENISE BARR

By KATIE DRYDEN

Students from Terra Nova participated in the recent March of Dimes Walk-Athon, held March 17.

The group of enthusiastic marchers from all over the Bay Area, ranging in age from grade-school to adults, gathered at Tanforan Shopping Center in San Bruno early Saturday morning. Here they were given maps of the 20-mile route and turned in a copy of their sponsor cards. These cards signified that the marcher was being sponsored for at least 10 cents a mile.

The walk started in San Bruno, went through Millbrae, Burlingame and then back to Tanforan, where weary marchers could be seen limping, shoes in hand.

Over the 20 mile course were five check-off and rest stops. Here, sponsor cards were checked. At each stop was a mobile unit with podiatrists to check blistered and worn out feet.

As marchers trudged down El Camino Real, clad with Walk-Athon signs on their backs, they were invited to have a free coke at Flings Drive-in, which was greatly appreciated. On the way back, the miles seemed endless and some who were a bit over-confident at the beginning found the "poop out trucks" quite refreshing as they rode back while others kept walking.

The march ended at Tanforan with more free cokes and aching feet.

When asked about the Walk-Athon, one Terra Nova student replied, "I walked for the cause, to help those who can't walk. The Walk-Athon was a success and I'm glad I was a part of it."

New Safety Standards Discussed

San Mateo County Safety Council is co-sponsoring a class in Occupational Safety and Health continuing at 833 Mahler Road, Burlingame, today.

Instructors have been trained by the Department of Labor and OSHA and are certified to teach Construction Safety and Health courses. Each person completing the two-day course will receive a certificate.

The course content is divided into the following categories:

1) work standards such as electric wiring, fixtures and controls, exits and accesses, fire protection, housekeeping and general environment, illumination, sanitation and health, signs, labels, ventilation, and walking and working surfaces.

2) Machines and equipment standards including appliances, electrical utilization, compressed gas and compressed air equipment and others.

3) Material standards under such headings as: hazardous materials, hazardous locations, material handling and storage, material handling machines and equipment.

4) Other categories include: employee standards, power source standards, process standards and administrative regulation.

The following questions will be answered:

1) How does OSHA affect your business?

2) What do you do to comply with OSHA?

Lost Pacifica Boy Found

dirty and dressed in ragged clothing, was found wandering about the second floor of the United Air Lines maintenance building at San Francisco International Airport at 10 o'clock Thursday night.

Sheriff's Deputy Rod Eagan said the youngster, all 4-feet, 85 pounds of him, was hostile and belligerant, declined to give his name and asked to be taken to Hillcrest Juvenile Home.

Obviously, the deputy reported, the boy was involved in some type of family problem. He was taken to the juvenile home where he did finally give his name. Juvenile authorities were attempting to contact his family today.

The youngster didn't say how he got to the airport, but he apparently walked the 10 to 12 miles from his home, Assistant Sheriff Eugene Stewart said.

Shades of 'Bullitt'—Car Crashes in Big Chase

A high-speed automobile chase Monday through South San Francisco, Colma and Daly City ended in a similar manner to the chase in the film "Bullitt," — with the car containing three men suspected of armed holdup crashing at the end of Guadalupe Canyon Parkway.

The arrested men, Michael Grant, 23, San Francisco; Carl Dietrich, 26, Petaluma, and a 17-year-old boy from Hollywood, managed to get out of their wrecked car unhurt, however. The two men will appear in Municipal Court tomorrow, and the boy at Hillcrest Juvenile Hall, all on charges of armed robbery.

South San Francisco Police Officer Gary Hopper was treated at Mary's Help Hospital for a neck injury, after his car was forced off the roadway during the pursuit.

It began at 9 last night when Officer Bron Croswell and Reserve Officer Tom Vellone noted two men running out of the D&M Liquors at 429 Grand Avenue, South San Francisco. The men ran to a waiting car parked on Third Lane, where a third person was sitting at the wheel of the car.

The two officers proceeded on Third Lane to check the car out, when it sped off, headed northward on Spruce, running a red light on Grand. Croswell, meanwhile, had checked the police station with his car radio, and found out that there had just been an armed holdup at the D&M Liquors.

Croswell turned on his red light and siren, but the other car sped up, to the end of Spruce, onto Hillside Drive, to Colma, going at speeds of more than 100 miles an hour.

Joining in the chase were units from Daly City, Broadmoor, Brisbane, the Highway Patrol, and San Francisco.

The fleeing car entered Guadalupe Canyon Parkway, winding through the lonely San Bruno Mountain area, at top speeds. Finally, at the end of the road, at Old Bayshore Highway in Brisbane, police had set up a road block. The driver tried to turn off onto a sidestreet but could not negotiate the turn, crashed into a dirt pile, wrecking the car. The occupants got out safely, however, and were surrounded by police.

No bail had been set by late this morning Being questioned today, they will appear in court tomorrow. According to police, the two men entered D&M Liquors, pulled out a gun and ordered the clerk to empty the cash register, as well as his wallet. They escaped with $92 — which was recovered.

Pacificans Debate Plan for Housing

Residents of three of Pacifica's older neighborhoods can rest more easily.

A number of them have been disturbed over Phase I of the Pacifica Housing Element. Purpose of this document — required under state law which insists that every city have a general plan — is to identify housing problems and make a preliminary statement of goals, and indicate probable solutions to problems.

Main trouble with Pacifica's proposed plan was that it stated that Pacifica has deteriorating dwellings — and named three neighborhoods as showing concentrations of such: Sharp Park, Pedro Point and Pacific Highlands (Westview).

Protesting at Monday night's meeting of the Pacifica Planning Commission were representatives of two of the Brown, objected that the proposed Phase I depended upon a study done in 1968, in which the researchers failed to go into any of the homes but just looked at their outside as they drove by.

"You cannot judge a home by its outside," she declared. "If you have to do so, you do it neighborhoods.

A resident of Heathcliff Drive in Pacific Highlands, Mrs. Pat inside."

She explained that most of the residents are middle-class and have limited funds to keep up their homes. What funds they have, she said, are used first for their living quarters—then the outside is painted.

"Other areas, such as Fairmont, look in worse shape now," she added.

Planner William VanBeckum reported that he had met with both the Pacific Highlands Association and the Sharp Park Improvement Club and agreed to delete references to deteriorating homes in the three neighborhoods.

Virginia Jaeger, who heads the Pacific Highlands group, explained that she feared that official acceptance of her neighborhood as a "deteriorating" one may offer an opening wedge for large-scale redevelopment.

Cow Palace Directors Override Horse Show Protest

The Cow Palace's Board of Directors has determined that a recent pony show at the Cow Palace was run properly — overruling a protest from a show participant who said show manager Allen Ross had "played favorites."

David Goodstein, a San Francisco investment counselor who entered a pony in the Hackney Pony Stakes last November at the Cow Palace, alleged that Ross had allowed one show participant to substitute one pony for another before the stakes began.

During a protest hearing on the matter at the Cow Palace last week, Goodstein said that other persons who also wanted to substitute one pony for another before the stakes were denied.

"Mr. Ross has a habit of playing favorites," Goodstein told the board. "He (Ross) doesn't run a clean show."

Ross is full-time manager of the Santa Barbara Fair. He also manages several horse shows throughout California and had come to public attention during a recent Senate investigation of the Del Mar District Fair.

During last week's hearing at the Cow Palace, Board Chairman George Keyston Jr., spelled out the meeting as a "protest hearing" to determine whether the pony show was run properly and said the board would not get involved in "personalities."

Goodstein received notice today from the board that the members had decided the show was run properly.

Woman Saved in Fire

An apartment complex maintenance man is credited today with possibly saving the life of a young Daly City woman overcome by toxic fumes during a fire in her apartment Saturday night.

Miss Joan Graham, 29, of apartment 122, 35 Poincetta Drive, was reported in very poor condition at Mary's Help Hospital.

Fire investigators said Miss Graham had apparently fallen asleep and a table lamp toppled onto a couch touching off a minor blaze in the foam rubber padding.

The room quickly filled with toxic smoke, Battalion Chief Mel Hansen said.

Maintenance man Harold Brooks was in the building when the fire alarm went off.

He smelled smoke and began checking each apartment. Finding Miss Graham unconscious, Brooks and two unidentified tenants carried the victim from the building.

Outside, Fire Captain Mike Orloff applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation until an ambulance crew arrived.

After carrying Miss Graham from the apartment, Brooks went back into the building and, using a fire hose in an outside corridor, extinguished the blaze.

S.F. Sheriff's Chef Booked in Hit Run

San Francisco Sheriff Richard Hongisto's chef was arrested for felony hit run driving in San Bruno Thursday. A complaint was also being sought for driving with a suspended license.

Booked was Jose Maria Vasquez Jr., 48, chef for the San Francisco Sheriff's Department, who lives at 1604 Jenevein Ave., San Bruno.

According to Police, Vasquez was driving westbound on Jenevein Avenue, and in the process of making a left turn onto Cunningham Way, when he struck a motorbike driven by Wayne MacLeod, of 2225 Princeton Avenue, San Bruno.

A rider on the bike, William Louis Rinaldi, of 421 Markham Avenue, San Bruno, was treated at Peninsula Hospital for a lacerated left leg, police said.

The incident occurred at about 3:30 p.m. Police arrested Vasquez at his home, after receiving information from witnesses.

Night Quarter Horse Racing At Bay Meadows

There is a new treat for sports-minded fans at Bay Meadows, in San Mateo. The Peninsula Horse Racing Association is presenting a 56-Night Quarter Horse Race meet which will continue through June 2. Racing Tuesday through Saturday, with the first race off at 7:45 p.m. Dinner and cocktails are served from 6:30 p.m. Bay Meadows is a great place to spend an evening — action and fun galore provided by the "World's Fastest Horses." . . . Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant, known as the "Fisherman's Wharf of the Peninsula," has been under the ownership and management of the Licata family since its opening in 1945. Here, Luncheon Specials (served Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.) are beamed toward the diner looking for a light, inexpensive luncheon with not too much time to spare during the noon hour. There are also varieties of fresh fish when available, plus appetizers, seafood cocktails, soups, salads, casserole dishes, eggs and omelettes, sandwiches, pastes, steaks and several Italian selections . . . Who is the pizza king of the Coastside? None other than Enrico Romano, owner and operator of Romano's Italian restaurant, located in picturesque Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. He offers pizzas crammed with the finest of ingredients.

FORESIGHTED HOTEL OWNER—Joe Greenbach, one of the "wheels" behind the Villa Hotel's perpetual activity, took a hand in the Grand Re-opening of the refurbished Villa Coffee House celebrations last weekend. Provisions for the future is the aim of the Villa Hotel management.

Enjoy A New Dining Treat—The Moonraker

Nick Gust, owner-host of The Moonraker, one of the West's most nautical restaurants and the pride of Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, says that Moonraker means "sails rigged above a skysail." Because the sailing ship appeared to be "scrapping the moon," the name was used by seafaring men. This nautical masterpiece located on the coastline of Pacifica features Continental cuisine prepared by master chefs. If you live on the Peninsula or in the San Francisco area, you're only minutes away from a dining experience you'll long remember for its moments of relaxed pleasure . . . Another solid restaurant favorite in Pacifica is Nick's Restaurant and Lounge, where family-style dinners are served every day of the week. Open from 10 a.m. to 2 a.m., this is a popular gathering place for large Sunday morning breakfast parties, birthday and anniversary celebrations, and small functions. Dancing to the Steve Romano Combo is a Wednesday-through-Sunday feature. This oceanfront complex is perfect for getting away from the daily grind. The ocean spray helps to clear away the cobwebs and put you in a happy frame of mind. See ya.

Historical Railroad Ties At Hungry Tiger

The combination of the rustic, intimate atmosphere, the congenial entertainment, and the fine food and service add up to a delightful evening in the San Mateo Hungry Tiger, located on the main floor of the 520 Building. Historical wooden railroad ties, which were a part of the Coronado Belt built by the Coronado Railroad Company, line the walls of this handsome new restaurant. Back in 1888 Elisha S. Babcok Jr. and H. L. Story started the railroad company as part of the Coronado Beach Company Development. The railroad was used to transport prospective buyers to the now famous Hotel Del Coronado and to the land developments. Then in 1890 sugar magnate John D. Spreckels purchased the railroad and added it to his empire. Eventually it became the San Diego and Arizona Railroad Company with the completion of Spreckels' railroad through the spectacular Carrizzo Gorge to the fertile Imperial Valley in 1919. The interior of the San Mateo Hungry Tiger was designed by Lyn Paxton of Paxton Cole design firm in Century City. Seafood selections from the East Coast, flown in fresh daily, complement the choice seafood of the West Coast, plus prime steaks. Lunch is served daily from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.; dinner until 1:30 a.m. There is live entertainment and dancing nightly in the cocktail lounge. Host-manager Albert Bardoux suggests reservations.

Ken's Features Big Soup Special

"If you want to beat the high cost of living, try a filling meal of soup," says Charles Nafe, manager of Ken's House of Pancakes (and other good things) in Millbrae. For instance, their "San Francisco Treat" soup special, North Beach-style. Try Chef Carl Stratman's famous hearty soups, served with individual loaf of sourdough French bread and plenty of butter. It's enough to satisfy a lumberjack and it's an inflation-fighter at $1.25 for lunch or dinner. Cream of Chicken, Minestrone, Clam Chowder, all thick and rib-sticking, will be a daily feature. Available only at Ken's in Millbrae . . . Diners at peak service hours occasionally find themselves confronted with a delay in getting a table on the busy Burlingame strip. When that happens, try Saluto's on the water's edge of Burlingame where 18 types of complimentary hot and cold hors d'oeuvres are served on individual platters. Also good is the fingerfood bar where diners can enjoy Cherrystone Clams, Oyster Rockefeller, Quiche Lorraine, and other gourmet delicacies available in the Cocktail Court before dinner, or in the dining room with dinner . . . Pete Brallier, bossman of the Peninsula's Round Table Pizza Parlors and the rockin' Whiskey Hill bistro in Burlingame, firmly believes in the power of advertising. Besides his Metcalf-Reis Pantera racing car, which he uses to promote the Round Tables, Brallier has "Pizza I" license plates on his personal auto.

Finocchio's Joel Noble To Produce Vegas Act

Hollywood agent Charles Trender has contracted Joel Noble, choreographer of the fabulous Finocchio's revues, to organize a dance group and musical trio to open in mid-April at the Landmark Hotel in Las Vegas. The group, four girls and one man, will then head for the Hilton in Puerto Rico. Joel, whose career has included Broadway shows, the Ed Sullivan show and dancing in the Josephine Baker Revue at the Olympic Theater in Paris, is the brother of Randy Randolph, pianist in the Fairmont Hotel's Tonga Room for several years, and now the personal pianist for Dee Dee Warwick, sister of Dione Warwick . . . That indefatigable restaurant team of Frank and Fannie Torres is once again in action at their beach eatery in Montara, just south of Devil's Slide on Coast Highway One. Torres' restaurant has long been a favorite dining spot on the Coastside, for Frank and Fannie specialize in superb South American dinner specialities of the house . . . Three top men in the travel field, Jim Mulpeters, president of Gray Line, Alex Beliaeff, regional sales manager of the Costa Line, and L. G. Robbins, Costa Line vice president, huddled over steak dinners in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco.

Fisherman Restaurant Executives "On Deck"

Have you seen that bevy of pretty girls who serve you cocktails at The Fisherman? Smartly turned-out in nautical costume, they bring your zesty meat balls, pizza and similar hot hors d'oeuvres at the cocktail hour. The cocktail lounge swings throughout the evening with dancing to Tony Masters' Trio. At The Fisherman, the owners are not absentee, but each handle a phase of the operation. Salvatore Patane is the inspired seafood chef, Alfredo Scardina is the attentive maitre d', and Rich Patane is the handsome, nattily-dressed manager . . . Bill Page and his Pages from the Past is the group appearing in Dominique's Supper Club at Ormsby House Hotel and Casino, in Carson City. This isn't just an ordinary lounge act. The four accomplished musicians and a talented femme vocalist combine slides, silent movie sequences, and the artistry of a leader who plays 14 wind instruments . . . Tony Austin and Co. headline in the Terrace Lounge at Cal-Neva Lodge, North Lake Tahoe. In Tony's growing-up years, his entire family played a musical instrument and every night after dinner they would get together and go through their favorite Italian songs. In those days Austin played the mandolin.

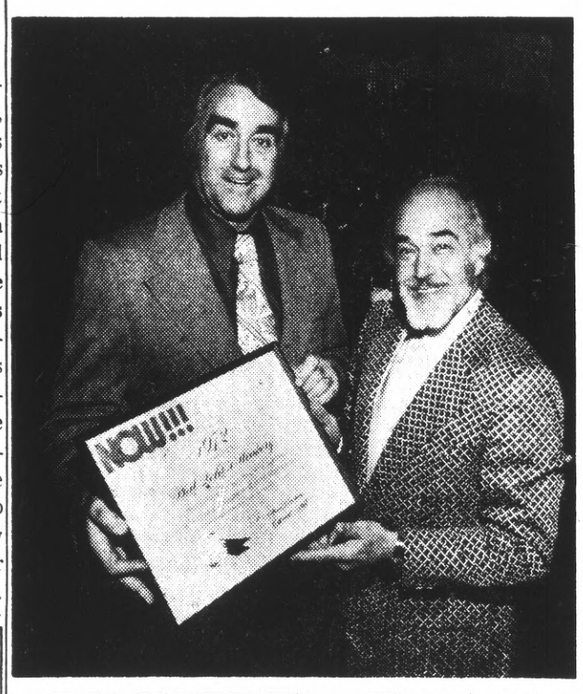
Skylark's New Luncheon And Dinner Menus Click

The new luncheon and dinner menus recently introduced at John Gamper's Skylark restaurant in San Mateo features several complete dinners reasonably priced. Selections include steaks, many seafood items, and Veal Scallopine. Be sure to inquire about the Skylark's Monday and Friday night specials . . . Tommy and Jeanine, the talented duo currently appearing in the Red Fox Lounge at Marine World's Holiday Inn, are well established veterans of the Nevada nitery circuit. Their previous credits include stints at the Stardust and Dunes Hotels in Las Vegas, and the Sahara Tahoe in South Lake Tahoe . . . Besides steaks, hamburgers, sandwiches, breakfast specials and a variety of other items, Leo Martay will soon be serving wine at his Whistle Stop in Belmont. He already has the license, but they're waiting for the specially designed display casks . . . An all-boiled meal that's a favorite with diners at the coastside's Galway Bay Inn is Finnan Haddie with Potato. Michael Murphy's selection of seafood entrees runs the gamut from lobster to Filet of Sole. Cod Fingers Orientale is another unique seafood dish served at this popular Moss Beach restaurant.



AWARD PRESENTATION — William Armanino (left), of Armanino Farms, presented the "Now Award" for "Excellence in Dining" to Phil Lehr, owner of Phil Lehr's Steakery and Wellington Room. The award is presented annually to restaurants, nationally, serving "outstanding cuisine in an atmosphere of cordial elegance."

Banque Room Ideal For Private Parties

Dave Rasmussen of The Shadows of San Mateo is really proud of his restaurant's magnificent banquet facility, the Banque Room. A few years ago, a large banquet facility was the only thing lacking in this successful restaurant operation. When the Crocker Bank vacated the premises for a new location, Rasmussen jumped at the opportunity for expansion. At considerable expense, the Banque Room was created. This plush room, which can seat up to 250 persons, is always in demand. See for yourself when you book that next meeting here. Reservations well in advance is our suggestion . . . A staff of pleasant, experienced waitresses, barmen and busboys are vital to a smooth-working restaurant. The Shirt Tail in Palo Alto has one of the best. Manager Durby Adkins oversees a closely-knit staff, many of whom have served here since the restaurant opened four years ago. Durby is an affable, hard-working pro who held top managerial positions with national food chains . . . Joe Ercoli, co-owner of the popular Leaning Tower restaurant in South San Francisco, is a dispenser of wisdom as well as an excellent bartender. Joe, who helps out behind the bar during the frantic lunch hours, is well known for his laconic wit and definite opinions.

San Francisco South Of The Equator?

Could be, what with the Down Under restaurant featuring all that Australian "flavor" right in the heart of the City's downtown area. The brothers Summerville, Don and Jim, have figuratively transplanted the Aussie suavity into their entire operation — food, bar, service, decor and charm accounting for the popular swing through their doors both during luncheon and dinner . . . Almost everyone at some time or another manages to visit the Cannery's Ben Jonson restaurant, if only to enjoy the elegant surroundings. The fireplace on the first floor in the Long Gallery is a natural gathering place for good friends and family. There are charming squirles and pages to serve your favorite "beastly beverage." Don't put it off — now is the time to enjoy cocktails and dinner at the Ben Jonson . . . The Iron Gate restaurant in Belmont is a great place to have dinner this weekend before seeing the fabulous shows at the nearby Circle Star Theater. Just tell Host Al Malatesta that you have an opening curtain to catch, and he will see that you're in and out with time to spare. After the show, swing back to the Iron Gate and cap your evening with music and dancing in the lively lounge, where keyboard artist Howard Albertson and his singing daughter, Leslie, put on a crowd-pleasing show.

Margie Brandon "Goes To The Dogs"

The organ bar at Big Nick's Paddock in San Francisco was loaded with charm last week when Organist Margie Brandon was accompanied by her two precocious poodles, Princess Papooly and Princess Papaya. For many years the former show-biz attractions did a wild topless dance to the accompaniment of Margie's organ music. However, Miss Brandon retired the dancing dogs — they are now "has beens" at nine dog years. Margie says that now when they go to work with her they just yawn a lot. In between songs, Sweet Margie, who is well known in the Bay Area as an animal lover, always inserts a bit about being kind to our four-legged friends . . . Our Father's Sons will provide the dance sounds this weekend at The Band Stand, in Redwood City. Because of its popularity, this four-piece group has found a "home" here. They also provide the after-hours entertainment on Fridays and Saturdays . . . Jack Costello is the talented organist with Freedom Train, the band now marqueed at Deejay's. A native of San Francisco, Costello has been accompanying Freedom Train leader Steve Lang for the past six years . . . Filet of Soul is the new band appearing at The Putter, in Burlingame Plaza. This group, which entertains Wednesdays through Sundays, has quite a following in local niteries.

Newspaperman's Responsibility

A concerned man slammed his fist on my desk and demanded, "What gives the people who write in our weekly papers the right to burn holes in the unity of our city?"

ewspaper people agree that they have a responsibility to write with objectivity; to present the news with the point of view of a detached observer, rather than that held by a participant in an event or of a critic.

Newspaper people agree that they have a responsibility to that "journalism is a practice in public service." They know with Lawrence Godkin that "yellow journalism is probably the nearest approach to hell existing in any Christian state," and the quickest way to unemployment.

BUT WHAT is news? Is it not, as Walter Lippman held, the overt even plus the background of the event and of the people who participated in the event? Is it not the responsibility of the reporter and the columnist to tell how the "seed is germinating in the ground?"

Lippman wrote, that it is a reporter's job to "report facts that may indicate what is going to happen."

It is in this light that the reporters who write for our weeklies must be judged. Is it not the public's obligation to respond to the stories and columns in a given newspaper?

It is a simple matter to contact a writer or pen a letter to the editor. Such an exchange has been called an essential condition for the maintenance of a free press.

History shows that honest to goodness reporters and editors welcome comments from readers.

For an excellent book on the subject read John Hohenberg's "Free Press-Free People." Here is a chronicle of mankind's age old struggle for freedom of expression.

It is a story too good to put down.

Here is the fight for freedom of the news from time of the Greeks to the age of the Warren Court; from the prophets of Israel to the bookburning of World War II Germany. Here is the story, often repeated, of a man or a group of men standing against bigots — some within the newspaper game, some without.

The last section tells about the condition of the press today. It calls attention to the effect of television on news reporting and of the explosion of technology.

"Free Press-Free People" has been called a notable and lasting contribution to public knowledge. Surely it can be read with profit.

Primaries Only A Year Away

The West Coast Balkans (California) are warming up for another uproar. This time, the 1974 elections — with big battles up and down the ticket in both parties. After the California Primaries, say some, who needs the General Election?

The Barony of Ben Swig can be seen emerging from wisps of fog in the late morning. From his Nob Hill castle he seems to be moving strongly for Joe Alioto. Rumors persist that Swig has brokered an Alioto — Pat Brown Jr. ticket for governor and lieutenant governor. Those close to Gerry Brown, however, vow that he will run for governor as long as his polls hold up in Southern California.

Why, oh why, do Detroit cars leave no room inside for people? Those back seats must have been deisgned by the Japanese and Germans. When does the public get more cars that fit?

The stock market is a great place for those who can guess what the funds are going to do. The funds are huge buyers and sellers and they make the market. Knowing all about earnings, capital, management, growth, and the endless ratios devised by analysts won't help. If the funds don't buy, a stock may remain flat, no matter what. Maybe there should be two markets or classes of stock — one for the biggies, and one for you and me.

Years late, some members of the BART Board of Directors seek control of their own agency. One has quit, and one seeks votes to oust B. R. Stockes. Trouble is that six more votes are needed, and the other directors will be slow to commit if they move in that direction at all. If BART board were elective, Stokes would go fast, for who would want to run for office on a "Keep Stokes" platform?

It should appear as no surprise that Attorney General Evelle Younger has stepped up his gubernatorial efforts. Some Ed Reinecke supporters seek a different primary opponent, and have announced that Younger has no financial support. Younger will now have to move up or out. This explains accelerated tempo of his campaign.

United Nations reports on crime show U.S. as a growth champ over past decade. International statistics also show that crime rate tends to rise in proportion to size of community.

Republican candidates long for the shot at Senate seat now held by John Tunney. Where Cranston shows strength, Tunney, looks like an easy target. Trouble is that Tunney doesn't run until 1976, and the line for potential opponents won't even form until after the 1974 election. Some of those now jockeying for position may only be in it this time for visibility, with the hope of moving for the Senate in 1976.

Fossil fuel — we will run short. Next move is to electrical power, then atomic, finally fusion. Problem is with dark, cold nights before next step is ready. There could be quite a few.

With the 1974 primaries only a year away, this is the season for kingmakers. The candidates divide their time about equally—one half is spent denouncing kingmakers, and the other half in search of same.

Case of the Missing Dog

OH THE SHAME — Daly City's ace sleuth, police Sgt. John Kolbman, had his watchdog stolen last week right out from under his home. It was a police dog, naturally. To add insult to injury the K-9 was taken in broad daylight. Is nothing sacred?

ONE DISGRUNTLED CITIZEN called with this riddle: "Why is the Jefferson Elementary School District Board like the Watergate Case?" Answer: "Because it's always bugging somebody." Amen!

BEEF PRICES ARE SO high that we've got a good mind to chuck this business and open a rent-a-bone store for soup makers . . . And what's so new about eating horsemeat? That's all we could get during the Big War back in the forties.

THE RECALL IN COLMA, which has the subject of the movement sobbing weekly to his apparent public relations writer(s), is indeed hotting up. Folks behind the thing refuse to register the list before the deadline with proper authorities because of expected pressure brought to bear on petitioners by some of councilman Ray Ottoboni's supporters. Veddy interesting and we shall watch.

GOOD NEWS FOLKS — The Bay Area Rapid Transit District (fondly known as Black BART) has appropriated slightly more than $100,000 so Daly City can buy its very own sandpile for the end of the track. BART officials say the sandpile works better than conventional steel barriers normally installed at the end of the rail. They ought to know.

JESD BOARD CANDIDATE Jeanne Kennaugh told folks at a candidate's night over at George Washington school the other night that she couldn't see anything wrong with using credit cards for phone calls. Neither can we. As long as they are used for district business. But when they are used for personal gain and have nothing to do with actual school district business then we say that's a no-no.

Mrs. Kennaugh's reasoning, as we understand it, was that school board members and Classified Personnel Board Commissioners do not receive any money for their efforts and, well, why not? . . . But we want to know what happened to that good old American Community Spirit. Or are we being naive again?

WE ONCE REPORTED HERE about some of the uses school people put those phone credit cards to — calls to local newspapermen from Boston; calls from all over the state on matters not even remotely related to school business as we see it, and calls home, or to their offices. The district attorney, who happens to be the board's counsel, in addition to being the public's legal safeguard, once roasted supervisor Bob St. Clair for the same thing — use of a phone credit card.

LET'S CLEAR THE air before the April 17 election JESD school board election. Where's that audit report? Had it not been conducted, (the audit, that is) we wouldn't be so all fired up. But it was conducted. And we did predict it would be shortstopped as part of the political game they play in the county. And we're still waiting to be convinced we are wrong.

WE CAN'T LEAVE THE JESD subject without making this fact perfectly clear: THE DALY CITY-JESD JOINT VENTURE CONTRACT FOR RECREATION was approved by the board. It IS in effect. There is NO cutback in funds. And folks, responsible folks, should start checking the sources before they mouth rumors now being spread by some school board candidates and their supporters.

EDITOR, ATTENTION — That picture caption where you called MISS Dee Reade "MRS." is wrong. The pretty, petite and SINGLE manager of Westlake Stationers (in the Westlake Center) hasn't been altared . . . yet.

IT'S THE LITTLE things that bug us: The time the County's registrar of voters took in figuring out that JESD board candidate David Parker's ballot statement was "too negative," because of his criticism of the way the board functions. Then, they give the guy a couple of days to come up with a new statement. Just like that. But that's the way they play this game called "politics."

FAVORITE FOOD FOR THOUGHT — The game of "Politics" is like "Monopoly," only you still collect $200 when you do directly to jail.

THERE'S NOTHING WE'D like better than to go to the D.C. Garden Club annual installation dinner at the Skyliner Restaurant on April 3rd. Only trouble is we'll be winging our way toward Hawaii and all those orchids, not to mention all those hula trees.

Complaints Against Mail Order Firm

By LORENE BEASLEY

Complaints from as far away as Hawaii are being processed against Daimex Gem Company of Diamaze, Inc., a Queens, New York, mail order advertiser, by people who have placed orders and payments with the company but have failed to receive delivery and, in many cases have received no reply to their letters. The complainants say trat not only they did not receive the stones ordered but that the firm refused to honor its "Money Back Guarantee."

Diamex sells synthetic stones, improperly described as "gems." It advertises in newspapers, Sunday magazine supplements and magazines. The small stones are sold loose, as well as in mountings. A study of their advertising circular gives the impression that the loose stones are sold inexpensively, about $5 per carat size, to attract prospects to purchase the mountings at much higher prices.

The practices of the firm generated such a large volume of complaints to the BBB-New York City, that, after Howard Reinsteing, principal of the company, who seemed to be doing business from his home, failed to straighten out delivery problems as he had agreed with the BBB, the files of the firm were referred to a law enforcement agency by the BBB.

As a result, the Diamaze Company, Inc., Diamex Gem Company and Diamex Company of Hewlitt have entered into an assurance of Discontinuance with the Commissioner of Consumer Affairs of the City of New York. The signing of this Assurance of Discontinuance is not an admission of the firm, Diamaze or its subsidiaries, that they have violated any laws. However, Diamaze does now agree after signing the Assurance of Discontinuance, to deliver or mail merchandise ordered within six weeks of receipt of the customer's order or make a full refund, or, advise the customer of the duration of the expected delay or send the customer substitute merchandise of equivalent quality.

Diamaze agreed in its advertising to conspiciously disclose any material exclusions, reservations, limitations, modifications or conditions of their statements, claims or representations. They further agreed to maintain a record of requests for refunds and the actual issuance of these refunds to complainants.

QUESTION: We signed a contract to purchase a $895 swimming pool last July. The pool was never installed and the contract says the agreement is void if installation is not made before September 15. How can we get the company to fulfill their agreement?

ANSWER: This is an old trick used by "bait and switch" advertisers to avoid selling an item that is below their actual cost. If the salesman was unable to "switch" you to a more expensive pool at the time of the sale he protected himself by using a contract that gives him this loophole. With such a condition in the contract the seller would not be obligated to install your pool. Baiters seldom ever sell their advertised products.

QUESTION: We recently talked to a salesman about a service his company offers. We did not have the cash at the time but did sign a paper the salesman gave us and now the company is demanding our monthly payments. How can we secure a release?

ANSWER: The paper you signed turned out to be a contract. You can probably secure a release only after paying a stiff cancellation penalty. Your signature on the contract indicates that you've read the paper and fully understand the terms and conditions. The Bureau hears about such cases daily and it is hard to understand why people are careless enough to sign papers without first reading them thoroughly. These situations almost always turn out to be most unpleasant and costly experiences.

QUESTION: Can a person make money operating a small mail order business?

ANSWER: It is not impossible, but the odds against the beginner are pretty astronomical.

QUESTION: What are the penalties against a creditor grantor not disclosing the total of all costs which a consumer must pay directly or indirectly and the annual percentage rate for obtaining credit and-or making a loan?

ANSWER: A consumer may sue the law violator for twice the amount of the finance charge, from the minimum of $100 to a maximum of $1,000, plus court costs and attorney's fees. For willfully and knowingly disobeying the law, a convicted firm could be fined up to $5,000, owner imprisoned for one year or both.

Two Films Recommended

Two current films on the Peninsula carry my high recommendation, both for their technical and acting excellence and their interesting treatment of story line.

Ingmar Bergman's "Cries and Whispers" is a mystery of sorts, as is "Sleuth," and both are intellectual exercises that only hit at gut level in retrospect. The Swedish director's work is a collage of emotions tracing the relationship of three sisters, their respective husbands and a peasant serving girl.

It is a moving and poignant spiritual encounter, as are most of his films, but deals more directly with personal torment. The film wasn't cited by the New York Film Critics for best picture, director, screenplay and actress (Liv Ullmann) for nothing. It was nationally named for best screenplay and best cinematography.

HERE IS a harrowing study of four women touched by the anxiety of death (one is dying of cancer) as they communicate through unobserved cries and through whispers imagined and real in their pleas to a God who doesn't seem to hear.

Their lives are measured by remembrances of times past as if their present exists in a vacuum. Dialogue is at a minimum and in Bergman's lean style, his stellar actresses, Liv Ullman, Ingrid Thulin, and Harriet Anderson, bring to the screen an exhilaration of inner spirit that is stark, depressing to some, but of the purest essence of artistry and introspection.

"Sleuth" appears to be a romp, a facetious takeoff on the British murder-mystery genre. It is more im-

Editor, The Post:

We are with you, President Nixon! In a statement issued by Mrs. Winifred L. Trebeaux of Plaquemine, La., first vice-national regent of the Catholic Daughters of America, and concurred with by California National and State Officials, Mmes. Manila Caprine of Glendale, national director; James Miraglia of San Leandro, state regent; Arthur Rinaldi of Hawthorne, national Juniorette director also first vice-state regent; Richard Abshear of Torrance, national regional consultant of Juniors and Juniors state chairman, have gone on record with Mrs. Trebeaux scoring what she termed "a recent attack of Mrs. Madeline Murray O'Hare on President Nixon in the form of a lawsuit for conducting services of Divine Worship in the White House."

Mrs. Trebeaux continues with, "True, prayer was banished from the public schools of the nation at Mrs. O'Hare's instigation. But since then, amendments to restore a proper form of prayer, constitutional in character, have been coming thick and fast in the Congress."

The C.D.A. official, second highest officer in this over 200,000-member organization said that "Mrs. O'Hare's complaint against the astronauts for reading the Bible in space did not get off the ground."

"One can only wonder . . . what protest would Mrs. O'Hare have made against our first president, George Washington, whose birthday we recently celebrated, when in his Farewell Address on Sept. 19, 1796 he strongly warned us against permanent alliance with foreign powers, particularly toward favorite nation, big public debt, large military establishment and devices of "small artful enterprising minority" to control or change government; praised reciprocal checks of Constitution; stressed need for enlightened public opinion; declared, 'religion and morality lead to political prosperity.'"

A California Past State Regent, Mrs. Mary A. Whealen of Fresno has been a zealous worker in this very worthy program to restore prayers in the public schools throughout the nation.

Our Viewpoint

Rapid Transit Evaluation

San Mateo County Supervisors have acted in the interests of the people of the county by their decision to seek a professional and expert analysis and evaluation of possible agreement between the county and the Bay Area Rapid Transit District for the extension of that district's transit system from Daly City to Menlo Park.

In recommending this course to the supervisors County Manager M. D. Tarshes correctly pointed out that "All of the fiscal information available to us has been developed by the BART staff. While we have no reason to doubt their competence, it is important that the county validate the financial information given to us and possibly develop other alternatives."

This is incontestably true. There have been so many radically conflicting cost estimates given, and alternatives proposed, in connection with this project that both the officials and the people of the county are confused.

Under these circumstances it is impossible to make any accurate appraisal of the total cost to the county of the transit extension. Figures of one billion dollars down to $700 millions have been advanced at various times and such a cost spread is too wide for credibility. There is also the matter of realistic computation of how much federal and state funding the project can obtain and upon what basis and time intervals such funds can be expected.

The financial considerations upon which an agreement with BART could be reached remain to be explored as does the effect of the authority of the Metropolitan Transit Commission (MTC) on such an agreement.

The matter of possible alternatives, such as the upgrading of the Southern Pacific service, or the use of that railroad's rights-of-way, is not yet determined although MTC will shortly begin a study on these points. A further alternative, the use of nigh-speed bus lanes added to present freeway routings — the apparent rapid transit method proposed for Marin County — may also go under study by the MTC.

All of these variables, both as to costs and methods, must be resolved before the people of San Mateo County, and their officials, can make informed appraisals preparatory to voting upon the largest single undertaking ever to be placed before them.

They will need reliable information, arrived at independently for the purposes of this county, before they can make a wise decision. The supervisors have now acted to insure that such information will be forthcoming.

DEDICATION CEREMONIES were held Friday to open the $3.3 million U.S. Archives and Records center at 1000 Commodore drive in San Bruno. More than 500 people attended the event at which James B. Rhoads, the nation's archivist, the man in charge of national historical records, documents and photographs, addressed the gathering. The center has a storage capacity of about 750,000 cubic feet. Besides historical records the center will shelter some income tax returns. (Post Photo)

Knights Down Cats

By RAY ROTOCO
Post Correspondent

In MPL Swim action last week the Hillsdale Knights drowned San Mateo 61-25; Crestmoor played rude host to Mills, dumping the Vikes 57-29; while Burlingame outran Capuchino's Mustangs, 50-37.

First dual meet actio. 'n the SPAL had San Carlos at Carlmont in a traditional rivalry which went down to the final event before Carlmont got by, 49-46.

In the NPL, dual meet action got going with El Camino dropping Oceana 39-28 and South San Francisco clobbering Jefferson, 72-12.

Hillsdale had little trouble with the Bearcats. The Knights won all but two events, the 200 IM and 100 breast, both of which were won by Roger Knorr of San Mateo.

There was only one event that escaped from Capuchino in the romp over Mills. For Crestmoor, freshman Rick Rolfes set a school record in the 200 free at 1:58.3; he also won the 400 free. Dave Tortorella was victorious in both the 200 IM and 100 breast.

Burlingame followed the same script as the others, taking seven out of ten firsts. None of the times were terribly good. The Panther's Don Peterson was double winner (200 IM and 400 free).

The neighborly rivalry between Carlmont and San Carlos sparked a close, exciting meet. San Carlos got six first places but their lack of depth (only eight varsity swimmers) cost them in the end—the Dons were able to take only two second or third places.

Even the brother act of George and Mark Magulac was not enough to compensate (George won the 100 and 200 free while younger brother Mark took home the 100 fly and 400 free).

In the NPL, swimming seems to lack some appeal: most of the teams are a little thin. Jefferson had only four varsity swimmers; Oceana has half that many and must bring people up from other teams to form a relay quartet.

Mustangs Trip Over Burlingame

By STEVE JOHNSON
Post Correspondent

The Mid-Peninsula League baseball scene was no place for the week of heart last week.

Burlingame handed Capuchino its second straight 2-1 loss. Hillsdale scored three times in the seventh to edge Mills, 4-3, and San Mateo surprised Crestmoor, 3-2, in eight innings.

The Panthers, currently the hottest thing going, struck for their two in the fourth on a two-out single by John Tulich, a double by Gene Batter, and a single to left center by John Ferreira to drive in both runners.

Cap, a slight league round-robin favorite, got one in the fifth on singles by Pete Santora, Bob Haskins and Rod Cunningham but had only two other hits off right-hander Tom Frederico.

Frederico, who struck out six and walked one in going the distance, pitched well in the clutch. He came up with key strikeouts to end both the fifth and seventh, the only times the Mustangs threatened.

Hillsdale got a life in the seventh when Dave Perez drew a walk as the leadoff hitter. Mills' lefty Gary Hart came on to strike out the next two Knights. Then, disaster.

Perez, who had stolen second, scored when Scott Scharlan blooped a single to left. When the Viking throw came to third, Scharlan hustled to second.

He scored on Kevin McWhirter's ground single to left. McWhirter came in when Art Morales' liner to left went for a double while a Mills outfielder desperately floundered in some mud trying to get to the ball.

Greg West's RBI single with two outs in the eighth appeared to be all Crestmoor needed. But ace Falcon right-hander Stu Bringhurst suddenly had a fit of wildness after seven brilliant innings.

Bringhurst departed after a walk to Jay Kernan, two passed balls, and another walk to Dan Howry. Chuck Chavez came on to issue an intentional walk to pinch-hitter Mike Walker, the Bearcat All-County infielder currently suffering from a tender ankle.

Kevin Nuckles drew a walk to force in the tying run. Then, on a perfectly executed suicide squeeze, Bruce Meyer brought in Howry with a brilliant bunt to end the game.

The gym was alive with excitement as advisors Dave Garrison and Debbie Maine coached the winning Casualiers' team to victory over last year champ's the Imperials, coached by Louis Duran and Kristen Olsen. The Imperials finished second, the Telstars a close third, and the Castaways fourth.

The Telstars team coached by John Jarvis, Ginny Jarvis and Nancy Eichelberger were awarded the "Spirit Trophy" for their outstanding spirit, enthusiasm and general team play. Advisors Bill Feeley and Sue Coleman coached the Castaways to one victory in 6 games over the eventual champs, the Casualiers).

Everybody Cheers High School Rodeo

There aren't any cheerleaders.

But everybody cheers.

There's no one trying to make a touchdown, toss a ball through a basket or over a net or across home plate.

But everybody watches.

And the bleachers are filled with high school kids yelling things like "way to go," "neat" and "right on."

These kids are into a new sport — high school rodeo — which has gained as much popularity in California during the past year as Mark Spitz's moustache.

Today there are close to a thousand teenagers who are members of the California High School Rodeo Association. Two years ago only a handful of high schoolers took an active interest in the sport.

And now, 231 of the top riders, ropers, steer wrestlers and goat tyers in the state are about to hit the Big Time — the District Playoffs at the San Francisco Cow Palace, Saturday and Sunday April 14 and 15 at 8 p.m. For the first time in 20 years the event, sponsored by the California High School Rodeo Association, will be held in conjunction with the Grand National Junior Livestock Exposition and Horse Show which runs April 13-25 at the Cow Palace.

Winners from seven districts throughout California will compete for awards valued at over $2,000. Proceeds will be donated to the year-old California High School Rodeo Association.

Events will include bareback and saddle bronc riding, bull riding, steer wrestling and calf roping for the boys.

Not at all discriminating, this sport has liberated girls from the sideline into the saddle and they will compete in barrel racing, pole bending, break-away calf roping and goat tying.

Team roping and cutting horse competition is open to both boys and girls.

Cotton Rosser and the Golden State Rodeo Company of Marysville and Brawley, will provide the broncs, bulls, cattle and goats. Rosser is a former intercollegiate rodeo champion.

Judges will include Casey Tibbs, many times world rodeo champion; Don Flanigan of Danville, and Darrel Chapman, Cow Palace Livestock Superintendent. Lex Connelly, manager of the Cow Palace, well known sports announcer and a former roping champion will announce the rodeo.

Three contestants from each district will compete in each of the 11 scheduled events. This one go-round rodeo, with two performances, will determine district championships.

Daly City Sports Roundup

Basketball

The Boys Basketball Leagues, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division, concluded its seventh and eighth grades with two all-star games last Saturday at Westmoor High School.

In the seventh grade game, team No. 1 used its superior height advantage to defeat team No. 2, 64-32.

Alva Warner and John Cosmos were too much for the losers to handle as they scored 20 and 12 points respectively and controlled the boards when they were playing. Mark Pretti led a balanced attack with 7 points for team No. 2 and four others added 5 points.

All-star members of both teams included: Mark Pretti, Danny Russell, Keith Anderson, Paul Erler, Chuck Bashaw, Shawn Wallace, Joe Newhoff, Tim Curran, Dave Semenero, Damon Rance, Tim Tiernan, Alva Warner, John Cosmos, Joe Bender, Ben Parodi, Carl Spirz, Phil Balisterieri, Mike McLennan, Paul Papageorge, Keith Harband, Doug Pittman, Mark Pittman, and Gary Ullom.

In the eighth grade game, Blake Chong led a balanced attack with 14 points and Danny Lara and Ed Migale added 8 each as team No. 2 defeated team No. 1 47-35. Dennis Murphy and Al Pontius were the lone bright spots for team No. 1 as they scored 10 and 8 points respectively.

Soccer

An interesting match presented two entirely different halves. In the first with the wind at their backs, Mill Valley constantly attacked, exploiting their forwards' speed successfully to elude the Westlaker fullbacks.

This left goalie Chris Wilsey with many head-on situations which he met courageously after being beaten the first time. However, he was forced to trade places with Tom Sullivan shortly before the end of the first half due to a shoulder bruise.

As soon as the second half began, the Westlakers pressed the attack and were almost constantly in Mill Valley's territory. But it was only after Danny Lewbin's conversion of a penalty shot that the score stood at 2-1 for Mill Valley. And suddenly, Mill Valley, on a fast break made it 3-1, and the Westlakers, continuing to attack desperately were frustrated as their shots went wide or were blocked.

Chip Hansel, for the Westlakers, played well on defense, coming up occasionally to try long range shots at the goal. Fullbacks Bill Rodrigues and Tim Short were a little slow on the turn and anticipation. Kevin moore, when switched to fullback, showed determination. Halfbacks Tom Sullivan, Carlos Quesada, and Greg Anawalt worked well with Quesada trying to set up scoring positions for his forwards. Danny Lewbin, at left wing, often got the ball across: Jimmy Kennedy at center forward, broke clear several times; Danny Vidmar and Nick Macchi, the inside forwards, worked hard.

were the lack of cohesion between offense and defense in the first half, and the inability to shoot hard and fast while spread-eagling — a massed Mill Valley defense with cross passes.

The game leaves the Daly City boys in a tie for first place in their division.

Soap Box

A clinic for the upcoming Soap Box Derby on May 6 will be held on Wednesday March 29 at 7-10 p.m. in the Coral Room of the War Memorial Community Center, 6655 Mission Street.

The derby clinic will feature various examples of the 4 classes of cars, instruction as to selection of materials, and actual construction of cars will be available for those who have questions.

The Derby, now sponsored by the Serramonte Homeowners' Association and the Daly City Recreation Department, had its inception three years ago when a Serramonte Association board member, Al Kane, initiated the program for children in the Serramonte area. The race started with cars fashioned after the Soap Box-type cars raced in San Francisco. This year's race will include that "offigial" car as well as 3 other coaster-type class cars.

Chairmen for the race this year are Charles Smithson of the Daly City Recreation Department and Howard Neumann of the Serramonte Homeowners' Association. Rules and entry blanks for the Derby may be obtained at any local playground or at the Recreation Department, 134 Hillside Blvd., or by calling 992-5356.

Boys' League

With only one game remaining, the books are about to close on the Daly City Recreation Department's Boys Basketball Leagues. The season has proved to be both instructional and competitive which are the ingredients that fake up an outstanding season. All coaches deserve a hand in their fine handling of the 1,000 plus boys who participated. The following are the results of last week's games:

Falcons Practice Win

Crestmoor High's baseball team had a successful last-minute tuneup for the Mid-Peninsula League baseball season Friday with a 1-0 victory over visiting Sacred Heart.

Greg West scored the Falcons' only run in the fourth on a double, an infield out, and an error on a pick-off attempt at third base.

Steve Callan went the first six innings for the win, allowing one hit. Stu Bringhurst finished up in the seventh, when the Irish made their only threat of the game.

With two outs, an SH runner tried to score from first on a double, but was cut down on a perfect relay from Dan Wild to Ken Nowack to West for the final out.

Horseshoe Pitcher Hurls No-Hitters

million horseshoe pitchers in the United States, and the number is growing.

They rank it just above tennis.

Dan credits much of the increased interest to the toy manufacturers.

A booming business is experienced each year in such games as "Horseshoes", "Frisbee Horseshoes" and "Jarts".

Performances will be Thursday and Friday at 4, 6 and 7 p.m. The show is free and the public is invited to attend.

Serramonte Center is located on Hiway 280 in Daly City.

Many champions are in our midst — everything from baseball teams to pretzel eaters.

Two world champion horseshoe pitchers will be performing Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at Serramonte Center in Daly City this week.

Dan Kucheinski, and his wife Sue, are billed as "Mr. and Mrs. Horseshoe".

They both have held world titles. At the time Dan won the title, he was the youngest ever to do so, and ironically, Sue was also the youngest to ever hold the women's title. Dan started pitching horseshoes at 10 years of age, and has been at it now for 15 years.

The Kucheinskis work together: Sue is a gymnast and performs while her husband makes "ringers" inches from her nose.

Carl Hubbell Part Two

(Second of a Three-Part Series)

When we asked long-time Burlingame resident Carl Hubbell last week, if, in view of the fact that he didn't have his first great season until age 30, he had been a typical late-blooming left hander, he answered with an emphatic "No." His problem, he said, was that in those days, NOBODY ever made the majors until their mid-20's, and then often didn't get a real opportunity to break in big until their late 20's. He did admit, however, that southpaws "do generally seem to develop later than right handers."

AT THAT POINT we digressed into Hubbell's career. But we now take up his continued discussion on the problems of being a left handed pitcher.

"Left handers generally develop late simply because most of them have control problems . . . Don't ask me why. Nobody's ever been able to figure it out. As somebody once told me, when I asked the same question, 'Why is a left hander a left hander in the first place?'

"But it is a fact. Lefties just can't seem to throw the ball straight even when they want to. It tails on you, takes off.

"Young southpaw pitchers must learn to adjust to that, to allow for it. When they learn how to handle that natural breaking stuff of theirs, they're murder.

"I was one of the rare southpaws who was gifted with control. I never had any problem with it.

"THAT'S WHY I say that I wasn't a late bloomer. But as I said, I was one of the lucky rare ones."

Speaking of breaking stuff, Hubbell doesn't think a kid should even try it until he's at least 15-16.

"Just throwing straight fast balls with a natural delivery until that age, and developing control with the fast one, is good enough. But before that age, the bone in your arm hasn't developed fully, and throwing breaking stuff can cause an arthritic condition. That's probably what happened to Sandy Koufax. I don't know this for an absolute fact, but I'll bet that Koufax was throwing curves too young."

Is breaking stuff that almighty important to big league success? And how about the "maxim" that a pitcher must keep the ball low to have continued effectiveness?

"Look, a pitcher who has a really good, live fast ball, can get by with high fast ones. Like Early Wynn and Lefty Gomez, to name just a couple. But, of course, not all big league pitchers are graced with that natural ability. And if you don't have the exceptional high velocity, moving fast ball, the low pitch is the one you have to develop.

"OF COURSE, there are some good low ball hitters, so you may have to occasionally deliberately pitch up there. Of, if you have confidence in your low pitches, you match your strength to the hitter's strength. But for every one good low ball hitter, there are probably 25 good high ball hitters, and they can generally hurt you most.

"Most extra base hits are on high balls, because you're throwing into the groove of a hitter's natural swing. Even good low ball hitters can't possibly have the totally level swing the high ball hitter has.

"Take a pitcher like Bob Lemon, who had a great sinking fast ball with good velocity to go with it. Many of his pitches weren't strikes, at least not when they were hit. But they were strikes just before they started sinking as they reached the plate.

"Now you figure the problem a hitter has. As soon as a ball leaves a pitcher's hand, a hitter has approximately only a fifth of a second to decide whether or not he's going to swing, and where he's going to swing. So he sees a pitch like the one Lemon used to throw apparently coming over the plate in the strike zone. He must start his swing. The ball is a strike when he starts the swing, but a bad pitch when he hits it — usually on the ground.

"A successful pitcher never allows a hitter to hit a strike — only what the hitter thinks is a strike — because, theoretically, a strike is a good pitch, and pitchers want hitters to hit only bad pitches.

"With pitchers like Lemon, you see hitters coming back to the bench frustrated. They'll say, 'If I take it it's a strike, and if I swing at it, it's a ball.'

"Now, a lot of people are saying that artificial turf has hurt all low ball pitchers, but it really hasn't hurt most low ball pitchers too much, although it may have at first. But now infielders have adjusted and play back much farther than they used to. Low ball pitchers who tried to adjust when the new surfaces came in by bringing the ball up are the ones who really got hurt. A pitcher should always go with his best pitch. He can't give in. The really good pitchers will always survive under any conditions.

"There's certainly more to pitching than overpowering a batter. It's all in getting him off stride, making him guess . . . wrong. There have been very few pitchers who ever lived who could continually over-power hitters with one pitch. Big league hitters will always find a way to hit that pitch, eventually.

"But if a pitcher has more than just that one pitch, then even the best hitters have a hard time. You figure it this way. Hitters must always protect themselves against the fast ball.

"IF THE HITTER is looking for a curve, he won't have a chance to get around on the fast one. But when they see the curve coming, pick up the spin on that ball, they have a better chance if they've adjusted themselves to the fast one. Even then, though, they have to learn to wait for that curve, adjust to the slower speed, the changing of direction, the drop a good curve usually takes, and so forth.

"That's why in hitting, size doesn't mean a thing. It's all bat speed. The quicker a man can swing the bat, the better chance he has of intercepting that ball, and the faster the swing, the harder the impact, the farther the ball is going to go.

"And you can't teach bat speed. It would be the same as trying to teach somebody how to run fast or throw hard. If a hitter doesn't have that quickness with the bat, he's going to be in trouble. Now, you can teach a hitter to make better contact, hit to the opposite field, things like that.

"But basically, it's the quickness of the hitter's mind and bat against the deception and-or quickness of the pitcher's ball. What it really amounts to is that Pitcher vs Hitter is the toughest one-on-one game in the world, the ultimate in match play."

Burlingame High picked up its first non-league win over Menlo School, 4-3, yesterday while the other six MPL teams played follow the leader.

San Mateo got back on the winning track with a 5-2 win over Mills and Aragon blasted Crestmoor, 7-0.

The Panthers lost the first three singles but vacuumed up everything else. Freshman Jeff Gates, playing in number five singles, picked up the win that did it.

San Mateo played very well at home. The Bearcats took the last four singles in straight sets. Tony Mendoza only lost one game in his win; Mike Economou lost only three.

Aragon had no problems in San Bruno. Only two of the matches were in any kind of doubt. Graham Shaw had trouble with Paul Pastorino and second doubles was also close.

Serra, the defending WCAL champ, continued along the same road with a 5-2 win over Riordan at CSM yesterday.

Bob Boragno came up with a big win in fourth singles for the Padres. Riordan only won one match, the other point coming on a default.

Capuchino High continued its comeback in MPL tennis with a 7-0 blanking of Hillsdale yesterday in a rescheduled match.

The Mustangs had very little trouble with the Knights. Only one match even went to three sets. That involved Cap's Jeff Cooper who until Thursday was only a JV player. He played in the match against Skyline College Thursday and won in a shutout.

Yesterday he defeated Si Portrait playing in number three singles 7-5, 1-6, 6-2. Number one man Gorden Van Zuiden won easily 6-2, 6-1.

Serra dropped a close 4-3 WCAL decision to St. Francis in Mt. View yesterday. That dropped their leagues late to 1-1. The Padres were minus two of their players.

Rams in a Tie

It's the kind of rut Terra Nova Coach Marty Coil has mixed feelings about.

After all, Terra Nova is now 2-0 but has chosen to do it the hard way, as North Peninsula League play gets in a day now and then. The Tigers won their second straight eight-inning ball game by the same score, 2-1, this time over luckless El Camino.

In other conference action, Serramonte and Westmoor played to a 6-6 tie, while South San Francisco edged Half Moon Bay 3-2. Jefferson and Oceana were idle.

Junior lefthander Steve Shirley pitched an erratic but highly effective high school game. The hard-throwing ace struck out 17 in eight innings, but kept himself in constant trouble with eight walks. His opponent, Rich Venerucci, struck out nine, and deserved a better fate.

The winning run came across on a walk to Mike LaCosta, Shirley's single which drove LaCosta to third, and a two-out passed ball, which allowed LaCosta to score. Reggie Pomicpic drove in Mike Taylor in the second inning for the other Tiger run.

Shirley walked four in the opening two innings, but picked off three runners.

Junior righthander Dennis Collier made his first start for SSF successful as he held on to a 3-2 lead for four innings before turning the ball over to senior ace Terry Hendley.

Hendley pitched the final three innings to get a save, striking out three and walking none.

Scoring was over by the second inning as a throwing error on a double steal allowed South City's first run, a dropped ball in the outfield on the next batter plated another one, and Bob McLean's pinch-hit single gave the Warriors the winning run.

Mateo Pacheco's double score the first run for HMB, and he scored himself after a passed ball and on infield error for the Cougars' only offense against Collier.

For the first time since the Shaughnessy playoffs, two teams ended in a tie, and according to the constitution the Serramonte-Westmoor deadlock goes into the record books as that.

Wildness on the part of all three pitchers who saw action kept the game drawn out. Seventeen walks, 12 base hits and two hit batters made things tedious.

Serra High Dumps St. Francis in Catholic League

Serra High's baseball team, after three weeks of sub-par hitting, finally broke loose on Friday in its West Catholic Athletic League opener.

The Padres pounded St. Francis, 12-0, in Mountain View, while getting 12 hits.

Serra actually held an 11-2 lead going to the bottom of the fourth, thanks mainly to a five-run explosion in the top of the inning.

An error on Steve Bazzani's bases-loaded grounder scored one. Reid Gotthardt's infield roller brought in another, and moved up runners to second and third.

John Guenley scored that pair with a single, and following singles by Dave Hile and Mike Pidd chased across Guenley. Sophomore John Caselli led the Padre offensive explosion with three hits and three runs scored.

Hile was the winner, although he left in the fourth. Joe Beriatua, who pitched out of a jam in that inning and finished the last two frames, got the save.

SSF Council Appointment Awaits Vote

South San Francisco city councilmen have decided to leave their city unrepresented on three bodies until a new councilman is elected May 22.

They held a special meeting Wednesday night to make appointments of councilmen to the Regional Planning Committee, San Mateo County Greater Highways Committee and the Westborough Water District. The City of South San Francisco was left without representation on these three bodies when Councilman Gordon Bobblitt was killed in an industrial accident January 30.

Each of the councilmen declined to serve on any of the committees, pleading that they were already serving on as many committees as they could possibly handle.

Also deferred were appointments to fill vacancies on the Beautification Committee and the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Councilmen interviewed three candidates Wednesday night for the Beautification Committee. However, Councilman Patrick Ahern, who is council representative of the body, reported having received two letters from persons wishing to serve. Councilmen also noted that other applicants were unable to be present Wednesday.

A list of 10 applicants, whose names were on file as interested in serving on the Parks and Recreation Commission, was presented. However, the council requested staff to publicize the vacancy first, to be effective April 1.

The sergeant was graduated in 1968 from Jefferson High School.

A 1962 graduate of Jefferson Union High School, he received his B.A. degree in 1966 from San Francisco State College and was commissioned there through the Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

Labor Leaders Pledge Battle On 'No Growth'

By LIN DAY

Far-out conservationists were ripped and scored in the blunt language of the union halls last night as the Coalition of Concerned Citizens declared war to the finish on "no growth" extremists, and vowed to face them henceforth in every meeting place.

Labor has won every battle it has undertaken to date, a trio of union leaders declared, and it intends to win this one against what, as one speaker told a group of 250 at San Mateo High School Auditorium, are really special interest groups masquerading as conservationists.

"They are finks," declared Brisbane City Councilman Julius Stern, who is also a representative of the International Longshoreman's Union.

"They don't produce a thing. They say they love people. They hate people.

"Labor does not mind being dictated to by producers: it does mind being dictated to by non-producers. It took labor a long time to get these regulations, such as the health and safety act. Now these people are attacking the projects that make the jobs that put the money into pensions and welfare supporting such regulations.

"Any group that ignores human misery and puts its own selfish interest above a man's right to earn a living and have a pension will have to face labor.

"Whenever the finks come up with plans, you find half are outdated and the other half are phony. They don't want to talk about throwing people out of work . . . their plan is for us to get welfare and food stamps. . . .

"Labor has had battles in the past. When it comes to the finks trying to take jobs away from us, they got a fight. They will have a fight on this one, too. Labor has won in the past and it will win again."

Dick Bell, business representative of the Operating Engineers, ticked off for the audience of more than 200 a list of projects he claimed the far-out conservationists had stopped:

Pescadero Dam, a source of needed farm irrigation; Princeton Fishing Village, a benefit to all the county and the area; Route 380 Freeway, "marooning the Coastside"; Denniston Creek, which "would have supplied good drinking water."

San Bruno Mountain, scaled down ("they didn't tell anyone there was already an 1,100-acre park there"); Pillar Point Harbor, tax base and recreation area for all the county; hi-rise buildings in Burlingame; Rockaway Highlands in Pacifica.

They are lining up big guns on San Francisco International Airport expansion and BART extensions now, he said.

"We got tired of going hungry," Bell said of the union workers, "just because some nut wanted to go to court. We formed our association. The whole building trades turned out on the San Bruno Mountain issue. The working man was there."

"We are tired of far-out environmentalists who are going to put us out of jobs."

Bell said the "no growth" people are "well organized, well informed and intelligent. They intend to stifle growth; their way is to cut off all freeways, hi-rise buildings, apartment buildings. They stopped growth on the Coastside with Proposition 20; they plan to enlarge this sphere of influence to the entire county.

Bell said that by blocking action on the Devil's Slide bypass after claiming environmental impact on a plan years in preparation, conservationists had placed the life of everyone driving through in danger. "It was stopped by five people with a court inunction," Bell said.

Bob Senz, of the Coalition, and representing farmers, said farmers were the first and true conservationists. Because of the actions of those blocking needed projects today, he said, farmers of San Mateo's Coastside have lost thousands of dollars in crops to recreationists who overrun their lands.

Farmers now have armed themselves with guns in their pickups, he said, after being "run off their land," by such people. He blamed conservationists for the fact that there is not a single chemical facility for thousands of people in some recreation areas.

A "radical few" are causing economic and social havoc, he said. Senz said organizations such as the Sierra Club are "elititists," with 51 per cent college graduates and 18 per cent with Ph.D.'s, a group "being used by radicals to gain access to the meeting halls." They are, he said, moving to control transportation, energy systems, water and sewage. "If we wanted to control this country," he said, that would be how to do it. "That's what they are doing."

"We have 1,200 volunteers for this fight," he said. "We are here to stay. We shall go into the neighborhoods and to the meeting halls."

Tom Huster, business manager of Plumbers Local 457 of San Mateo, said, "We have to see that not one more working man loses his job. We have to get back to the old-fashioned way of doing things and destroy them, or they will destroy us."

Henry "Bud" Bostwick, representing industry in the Coalition, and administrator of the San Mateo Development Association, reminded that he served in the formative days of Bay Conservation and Development Commission as a State Legislative appointee. He attacked the ultra-conservationists last night.

"When I am told we have to give up the needed Bayfront Freeway because it might upset the psychological pattern of the Pacific flyway (migrating birds), I give up," he said. "No growth is a simple form of hysteria. I shall no longer dignify such platforms with my presence."

Bostwick said that leadership had been allowed to slip, and he credited union workers for saving projects that businessmen should have fought for. "These fellows saved $25 million in Burlingame and I am ashamed to say there wasn't one businessman there to join them," he said of a hi-rise fight.

The meeting, said Earl Honerlah, moderator, and secretary of the Building Trades Council of San Mateo County, was the fourth in the series of Coalition attempts to inform "our people in the trades that if you let these people go far enough, they'll lose their jobs."

A small group of women representing conservationist issues, who attended, gathered in the auditorium foyer afterwards, white-faced from the blistering oratory. "A windbag," said one of one speaker. "Did you notice he had no real point?"

JESD Board Renews Rec Agreement

By their decision not to take any action on the matter the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees last week renewed a joint venture contract with the city of Daly City to provide recreational programs for another year.

If the school board had wanted to cancel the present Daly City-JESD recreation contract which the school district pays the city some $49,000 per year to run, positive action would have had to be taken by a majority of the board.

Had they wanted to scrap it, three members of the five-member board would have had to vote "no."

Instead, Trustees James Cranna and Albert Collett voted to renew the contract, while Trustees Beverly Forrester, Dorothy Adams and Edward Tomasello abstained.

By their silence, the measure passed and the contract will remain for another year.

This Heavenly Dessert Has Many Variations

By JULIA CHILD
The French Chef

Of all luscious, creamy, light, and heavenly French desserts, a perfectly executed Bavarois may well be the most and the best.

A combination of custard sauce, beaten egg whites and whipped cream with just enough gelatin to hold everything together, it can stand majestically on a silver salver either by itself as a Bavarian cream, or corseted with lady fingers in the guise of Charlotte Russe.

Piled into a cylindrical mold and walled with wax paper until the gelatin has set, it becomes a cold souffle. And poured into a sugar crust, it is a chiffon pie.

Here is the mother formula, made with a fresh vanilla bean or fresh ground coffee.

BAVAROIS A LA VANILE, OU AU CAFE — Vanilla or Coffee Bavarian Cream. For about 2 quarts, serving 8 to 10:

- 2 Tb (2 packages,) plain unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup milk in a measure
- 1 2/3 cup milk in a saucepan with cover
- 1 fresh vanilla bean halved lengthwise; or 1/3 cup fresh ground coffee (regular grind)
- 1 cup sugar
- 8 egg yolks in a heavy bottomed 2-quart stainless or enameled saucepan
- A portable electric mixer and/or a large wire whip
- A sieve lined with a double thickness of washed cheesecloth, set over a bowl
- 5 egg whites in a clean dry beating bowl
- ⅛ tsp salt
- ¼ tsp cream of tartar
- A large bowl with 2 trays of ice cubes and water to cover them
- Pure vanilla extract, as needed
- ½ cup chilled heavy cream in a 3-quart metal mixing bowl

Creme Anglaise — Custard Sauce. Sprinkle the gelatin into the ½ cup milk, and set aside until needed. Set the sauce pan of milk over moderate heat, add the halved vanilla bean or the coffee, and bring almost to the simmer; cover and let steep 15 minutes over very low heat. Meanwhile, gradually beat the sugar into the egg yolks, using a mixer or whip; beat until the mixture is pale yellow and forms the ribbon as a bit is lifted and dropped back. When milk and flavoring have steeped together, strain through the cheesecloth. Beat by dribbles into the egg yolks and sugar until half a cup has gone in; gradually beat in the rest. Set over moderate heat and stir slowly with a wooden spoon, reaching all over bottom of pan, for 4 to 5 minutes, but be careful sauce does not come to the simmer and curdle the egg yolks. You must however heat it to the point where it thickens enough to coat the spoon with a creamy layer. Immediately remove from heat, and stir in the softened gelatin mixture; beat vigorously for a minute or so to dissolve gelatin completely, and to cool custard slightly. Remove cheesecloth from sieve; strain custard.

The Egg Whites. At once, using a clean dry beater, beat the egg whites, starting rather slowly until the egg whites begin to foam. Beat in the salt and cream of tartar, gradually increase speed to fast, and continue until they form stiff shining peaks. Pour the hot custard sauce down the inside side of the egg-white bowl, then fold the egg whites into the custard with a rubber spatula.

Finishing the Bavarian Cream. Set in the bowl of ice. Every 2 to 3 minutes, fold gently from edges and bottom of bowl to center, to prevent outer portion from setting before the cream is cold. As soon as it is cold, but not set, remove from the bowl of ice (8 to 10 minutes at most).

Creme Chantilly — Lightly Whipped Cream. At once set the bowl of cream in the bowl of ice. Circulating beater or whip about bowl to incorporate as much air as possible, beat for 3 to 4 minutes until cream doubles in volume and beater leaves light traces on the surface of the cream; it is not stiff, it simply holds its shape softly. Being sure the custard is thoroughly cold, but has not yet set (beat with wire whip if it has), fold in the whipped cream.

TO SERVE AS A MOLDED DESSERT: Bavarois

Rinse a fluted or fancy metal mold, a ring mold, or a cylindrical metal charlotte mold of 2 quart capacity in cold water, and shake dry. Scoop the custard into it, cover with plastic wrap, and chill 4 hours or overnight. To unmold, dip in warm water for several seconds, and reverse onto a chilled serving plate. Decorate, if you wish, with chocolate leaves or shapes (French Chef Snow No. 229, . . . Working with Chocolate . . .); or with candied violettes or rose petals. Accompany with a cold chocolate sauce, or a fruit sauce such as the puree of strawberries or raspberries (fresh or frozen) in French Chef Cookbook No. 91.

MOLDED IN CAKE OR LADY FINGERS: Charlotte Russe

Line the bottom of a cylindrical 2-quart charlotte mold or baking dish about 4 inches high with a round of wax paper. Place upright ladyfingers or strips of spongecake close together around inside of mold, and pour in the custard. Trim off ends of ladyfingers and press into top of custard. Cover with plastic, and chill. Serve as described for the Bavarois.

A COLD SOUFFLE: Souffle Froid

Pin a collar of wax paper around a decorative cylindrical serving dish about 6 inches in diameter and 3 inches high, letting collar stick 3 inches above rim. Pour in the custard, cover with plastic, and chill. To serve, remove the collar. Decorate top and sides of souffle with chocolate bits or pralin (caramelized ground nuts, French Chef Cookbook, No. 33), or with candied violettes or rose petals. Accompany with a chocolate sauce or fruit sauce.

AS A CHIFFON PIE: Tarte au Bavarois

For orange, dissolve the gelatine in 2/3 cup strained orange juice, and use 1½ cups milk plus the grated peel from 2 oranges for the custard; decorate with fresh orange segments. For chocolate, melt 8 ounces semi-sweet baking chocolate with the milk before making the custard sauce, and use 2/3 cup of sugar for the custard rather than 1 cup.

Clam Chowder With Cheese

For a "taste of the sea," serve Clam and Cheese Chowder. In saucepan, cook 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper with 1 large clove garlic, minced, in 1 tablespoon butter or margarine until tender. Add 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed clam chowder (Manhattan Style), 1 soup can water, and ½ cup shredded sharp process cheese. Heat until cheese melts; stir now and then. Makes about 3 cups.

EGG ENTREE

The next time you are serving eggs for dinner, try this new approach: saute slices of Spam and top with apple sauce which has been heated with a little brown sugar and cinnamon.

Storm Damage Mounts In Pacifica

The Pacifica City Council Monday proclaimed the existence of an emergency in the city—and issued a second proclamation requesting Gov. Ronald Reagan to do the same.

City Manager David J. Thompson revealed that, as an aftermath of more than five months of storms, Pacifica has suffered at least $681,000 in damage, as well as threats to the future safety of the community.

Major damage was reported by Robert Boone, engineer for the North Coast County Water District, which covers nearly the same territory that Pacifica does.

He reported that on March 6 a slide occurred in the rain-soaked earth above Valencia Drive where the water district's 14-inch main crosses the slope, snapping the main, leaving 10,000 persons with no water. Water district men made emergency repairs, permitting temporary resumption of water service. However, the 14-inch main is still in a dangerous condition because the slide condition still exists, Boone said. Thus, the district must abandon that section of water main and install 4,600 feet of new pipe, plus a new pump station—at a cost of $222,000, according to Boone.

In addition, the district's 16-inch main is in danger, the council was told. It runs just east of Cabrillo Highway, between Reine Del Mar and Rockaway Beach Avenue, and is on a slope now subject to slide at any time, Boone said. If that line should break, Boone warned, substantial property damage is likely, as well as closing of the highway. Needed is 3,000 feet of 16-inch pipe, to be installed along the highway, at a $130,000 cost, the engineer said.

As a result, Harlan Hill, water district manager, asked the city to proclaim a local emergency, so that the district can apply for state and federal funding to help in the needed repairs.

Major damage has been done by record pounding by the ocean waves, the council was told. Suffering the most was Pacific Skies Estates along the cliff north of Sharp Park, which lost a $100,000 sea wall.

Apparent road damage included: Shelter Cove Road, $20,000; bridge at Sanchez School across Pedro Creek, $30,000; culvert at Milagra at Miller, $10,000; energy dissipator washed out on the Sharp Park Road, $3,000; street settlement at Rainier, $2,000; spring in streets at Oddstad at Sequoia, $1,000; Fairway pump station flood, $1,600; Esplanade culvert, $5,000; Blackburn Terra washout, $5,000, a total of $77,660.

Numerous private homes suffered major damage. A home at 264 Arroyo Drive suffered $8,000 damage from a slide; 423 Belfast Avenue suffered $3,500 from a slide; 947 La Mirada had $5,000 damage from water under the house from overflow from a nearby culvert; 298 Juanita had $4,000 damage from a retaining wall collapsing on the garage. Four homes on Monterey Road suffered a total of $3,500 damage.

Many other homes were listed, but they did not include the homes along Anza Drive, whose owners have filed a large-scale suit against the city.

A number of seashore residents were at the meeting to ask for action from the city.

Nick Gust, Rockaway Beach restaurateur, complained that it is "very difficult for a resident of the coastline to protect his property. We have had a shifting of our tides during the last five to six years that could hit any part of the city."

He asked that the Army Corps of Engineers find out what "caused our coastline to shift."

Emory Lebonville, president of the Sharp Park Homeowners Association offered to support any such request.

Clarence Dahlberg, owner with his brother of Pacific Skies Estates, reported that the Army Corps will have its final report on its coastal study out Friday. He said he had been in contact with the Corps, as well as with various legislators, over his sea wall.

"Five to 25 feet of land has been lost," he declared. "It's been taking a constant pounding."

"I've been here 12 years," Vice-Mayor Stan Farber agreed, "and I've never seen it like this. Others here for 40 years tell me they have never seen it this bad."

Reginald Perrier, 1112 Palmetto, complained that he had tried to save his property by filling it with fill from Playland at the Beach—and the city stopped him, insisting on a $100 quarrying fee first.

Farber complained that by the time many victims who try to save their property finish getting their various permits and Coastal Conservation Commission permits, they are liable to be washed out.

Mayor Grace McCarthy, who is vice-chairman of the local commission, said that an owner can get an emergency permit by telephone. Thompson insisted that a quarrying fee was necessary because fills caused problems to other residents, such as dirt hauls.

More About Sneath

tics, however, was that the accident rate on the road dropped 66 per cent in 1972; that there was a 40 per cent decrease in use of the road; and that most of the accidents were not on Sneath Lane per se, but on the connecting, and already "improved," Rollingwood Drive and Skyline Boulevard.

High Schooler Greg Phillips pointed out that the recent community congress "voiced opinions that was supposed to be the voice of the community."

He noted that the result of that "opinion" was to leave Sneath Lane a two-lane roadway and simply resurface it. "You're making a mountain out of a mole hill," he said.

Jim Prescott, president of the Crestmoor Park Improvement Association, said this resurfacing (with the addition of a sidewalk) was in fact the wish of that body of homeowners he represented.

Holdup at S.S.F. Mart

Mrs. Bunnie Crider, co-owner of Crider's Market, 772 El Camino Real, South San Francisco, watched casually as a customer walked in and took some milk from the refrigerator. She suddenly stiffened when the man opened his jacket and pulled a revolver from his waist.

"Empty your cash register. Put it in the bag," he ordered

He fled to a black convertible with two companions, waiting on the curb, and headed north on El Camino Real.

Officer Mike Dixon was on the scene within a minute, but failed to find the men. The robber was described as about 18 years of age, short hair, 5 foot 6, 130 pounds, thin build, black and wearing a beige jacket.

Two Films Recommended

portantly, a tour-de-force for two highly accredited actors, Sir Laurence Olivier and Michael Caine.

Dialogue is bright and witty, so clever in fact, that many of the lines are lost as they clip along in off-hand manner. It's all a part of the sophistication of the two principals: Olivier as a renowned author of murder-mysteries and Caine as the suave young suitor of Olivier's wife.

They meet in a cluttered country manor to draw each other out on the subject of love, to jolly each other up with drinks and word games that would catch each other up to be the wittest. And it turns into a preplanned execution that passes as a game, each defining the rules and boundaries but not realizing how far to where fun goes and terror begins.

IT'S A BRILLIANTLY masterminded plot by author Anthony Shaffer under Joseph Mankiewicz's direction but I felt, especially after seeing the thriller staged twice, that everyone got carried away. Away, beyond sound cinenatic limits, so that for all its weirdness and maze of clues and surprises, one got bored with it all (especially all the toys in the mansion spinning, ticking, turning and whirring so often, so loudly and so collectively) even before the bizarre climax.

The whole thing needs tight focus, so that the duel of wits and competition is the only center of one's attention. Having them run all over the house, acting like little boys on a rainy day amusing themselves with hide-and-seek games (even to lingering on a shot of evidence being flushed down a toilet bowl) detracts from the puzzle in which the viewer must become entangled.

Caine is the more believable. God strike me dead that I should give the maestro of British theater a bad review but I felt Olivier's excessive mugging and rolling of eyes upward gimmicky rather than eccentric.

You'll find it amusing and gripping. Who can resist an old fashioned suspense thriller when there is little chance you'll figure out the who, what and whys of it before the final reel. It's very likely, my knowing all its devious secrets put me off from being totally immersed. Go and see for yourself.

Venceremos Group Back On Peninsula

Five members of Bay Area revolutionary groups who recently returned from a visit to Wounded Knee, South Dakota, described their experiences last week at a press conference at the Venceremos headquarters in E. Palo Alto.

What we saw when we were there was that "the Ogalala Sioux were completely united," said Marc Sapir of the Venceremos. The government started out by trying to cut off support from the outside and then moved in and seized a nearby town and arrested the district chief."

According to Bob King of Venceremos, "a piritual and cultural revolution is taking place inside the Ogalala nation." The nation has not attacked the U.S. they are trying to live a new life style.

The group has said that they went to the area for nine days as a medical team and started a hospital to aid the Indians.

"We are calling on people in the whole country to join our valiant Sioux brothers at Wounded Knee," King said. A little known fact about the conflict King said, was that land inside the reservation has been leased to a wealthy white man and that is the reason the government wants the Indians out.

"People are going to remain there free or are going to leave with a lot of people dead," said another Venceremos spokesman.

Mariner's Isle Shop Center Concept OKd

The concept of a regional shopping center on Mariner's Island was approved last week by the San Mateo Planning Commission.

Commissioners acted after being told that if a shopping center is not built on Mariner's Island, one will be built nearby, thus depriving San Mateo of sales and property tax revenue. The commission reached its decision despite warnings that downtown San Mateo would suffer some loss of trade if such a center is built.

After more than three hours of testimony, Commissioner Sharon A. Rogers declared:

"I have confidence in the ability of the city and its merchants to meet the challenge. I realize there will be some loss in sales . . . but don't really think we're sounding anybody's death knell. . . ."

Under consideration was a proposal of a development team to build a multi-million dollar regional shopping center featuring a covered mall. Also included in the plan for the 220-acre Mariners Island site are apartments, offices, an automotive sales center and a neighborhood shopping area.

The prospective developers are the Lewis Douglas Development Company and the Rouse Company.

While the commission approved the idea of a shopping center on the long-dormant property, it did not approve the project itself. This would come only after subsequent hearings.

The move was opposed by Dennis Hession, an attorney representing a group of concerned citizens and businessmen. He said it is General Plan policy to protect Hillsdale and downtown San Mateo.

He was supported by Paul Fullerton who presented an economic study which indicated the area could not support another shopping center.

"The biggest loser would be downtown San Mateo," Fullerton said. "It would be most vulnerable to a new regional commercial development."

Commissioner Mervyn A. Bader sided with the opponents, noting that the city's population has "stayed dormant for some time."

"I don't see the need for an extra shopping area," he said. "Downtown San Mateo would suffer."

Planners' Chairman Robert A. Ratti observed, however, that, "We can't keep shopping centers from springing up. We face possible erosion of our tax base by trying to intervene in competitive business."

Commissioner Edward J. Reilly, who also supported the concept of a new regional center, said it would provide jobs for the construction industry.

"On balance," he said, "the whole community benefits more from active business instead of vacant land."

Developer Douglas said that if a shopping center is not built at Mariner's Island, one probably would be established at Redwood Shores or Foster City. It would, he said, attract dollars that might otherwise be spent in San Mateo.

Mrs. Rogers agreed that other developers are interested in a mid-Peninsula shopping center, adding:

"I don't think we need to be concerned about doing in downtown (San Mateo). I think this enclosed mall center can attract dollars we're now losing."

The commission approved the concept of a regional center by a 4-1 vote with Bader opposed and continued until April 23 the hearing on the developers' specific plan and the General Plan amendments needed to permit it.

Industrial Show to San Mateo

Over 15,000 visitors from all areas of western industry are expected to attend the Eighth Annual Northern California Industrial Exposition to be held April 4-6 at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds. The event is the largest industrial exposition held each year in Northern California.

Actually three shows within one, occupying three full fairground buildings, there will be the Industrial Exposition, featuring machine tools and related production equipment, in the Fiesta Building; the popular Western Patent Exchange, in the Hall of Invention, which provides western innovators with the opportunity to expose their inventions to potential developers and manufacturers of new products; and a full-scale Material Handling and Packaging Show in the Packaging and Handling Hall.

Sponsors of the exposition include the Peninsula Manufacturers' Association, Small Business Administration, San Francisco Bay Area Council, San Mateo County Development Association, Society of Packaging and Handling Engineers and American Society for Industrial Security.

Always a highlight of the exposition since it was incorporated in the show four years ago, the Western Patent Exchange is sponsored by the California Inventors' Council, with Lieut. Gov. Ed Reinecke as honorary chairman. Lt. Governor Reinecke holds several patents in his own name.

A feature of the inventors' show will be an all-day clinic, starting at 9 a.m. April 4, on "Profiting From Your Invention," conducted by the California Inventors' Council. An Inventors' Luncheon will be held the same date.

Also on April 4, starting at 5 p.m., local chapters of the Society of Packaging and Handling Engineers will hold a joint dinner meeting at the exposition, with a tentatively scheduled address on the effect of the change to the metric system on the packaging industry.

Other educational sessions include a Plant Protection Seminar at 9 a.m. April 5, sponsored by the Plant Security Committee of the Peninsula Manufacturers' Association and a series of three one-hour seminars on air driers for compressed air systems, electrical variable speed drives, and fluid power vs. mechanical power systems conducted by industrial bearing company exhibitors on April 6.

Exposition hours will be 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, April 4 and 5, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday, April 6. The exposition is open to the public. Complimentary tickets may be obtained from local exhibitors, the Peninsula Manufacturers' Association or the exposition office at 77 Jack London Square, Oakland.

Sign Laws Enforced

San Mateo City Attorney Maurice Hamilton Monday night informed the Council that its sign ordinance — including the sections applying to display of political signs — is legal and is being enforced.

He reported that last week's two-day federal court restraining order was dissolved on second hearing of the issue.

He said notices have been sent to all candidates informing them that the law is in effect and enforcement will be carried out in accordance with its terms.

Deputy Mayor W. K. Burkdall said he was a "little unhappy" to read about an altercation involving political sign posting and removal by supporters of rival candidates for office.

He said he had hoped all nine candidates would cooperate and not post signs, thereby eliminating what he described as "visual pollution." "Of course, I can't stop anyone from putting up signs, but I hope this situation doesn't encourage anyone to put them up," he added.

Promotion

Josephine V. Pack, of Belmont, has been promoted to assistant vice president of The Bank of California's head office remittance banking department. Mrs. Pack joined the bank's remittance banking department in January, 1962, and in February, 1970 became an administrative assistant. In 1971 she was promoted to operations officer.

Crackdown on Substandard S.M. Housing

San Mateo's new Housing Advisory Board launched a major citywide crackdown on substandard housing last week.

The drive to improve San Mateo's homes and maintain neighborhood values, includes all structures which are of such nature as deemed creating a public nuisance or hazard affecting public health, safety, and welfare or creating a depreciating effect on property values.

Under terms of the city's law, this also means homes which are obviously in need of paint, replacement of broken windows, and maintenance of landscaping in keeping with neighborhood standards, and other factors.

Abatement, demolition and removal proceedings were ordered against three properties, determined to be in violation of the law by the board.

In one building official Jack Watt was instructed to launch necessary legal action to have a partially standing structure demolished and have the property cleared. In another it ordered immediate removal of an inoperable junked vehicle.

In the third action it gave the only property owner of three cited who appeared a two weeks' reprieve to clean up his property and 60 days to paint his house. He told the board he is retiring and plans to sell the house by the end of June and asked for time to complete the improvements.

Cited before the Housing Appeals board were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rosenthal, owners-occupants of property at 1816 Newbridge Avenue.

Others cited who did not appear were Stephen Andrews of 2056 Fillmore street, San Francisco, owner of property at 39 North Fremont street in San Mateo: and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Nilmeier, 1200 Newbridge avenue, owners-occupants of the property, according to city inspectors.

Chairman Ron Siemsen repeatedly expressed his keen displeasure with the disregard exhibited by the property owners who failed to show up.

In all cases in which property owners continue to ignore city notices and citations, the city will move in to abate the conditions, and bill the property owner, taking him or her to court if necessary to collect, Siemsen explained. He subsequently emphasized, "Believe me, we are going to get tough about these conditions."

The board determined that in its present condition the Rosenthal property constitutes a public nuisance.

Explosion Rips Home In Daly City

An explosion in a home at 429 Willits Street, Daly City, shortly before 10 p.m. Sunday blew a garage door off its hinges and shattered windows in an adjacent home.

Miraculously, no one was injured in the blast.

Battalion Chief John Roy said the explosion was apparently touched off by leaking gasoline from a car parked in the garage at 429 Willits Street coming in contact with a water heater or the structure's furnace.

The home is owned by Carlos E. Sanchez.

Sanchez and his family were upstairs at the time of the explosion.

The garage door was blown out, windows in the Sanchez home shattered and a window in a house at 439 Willits broken.

The explosion rattled windowsh up and down the block, Roy reported.

1021 BURLINGAME AVE.—BEHIND S.P. STATION

Now that Oldsmobile is number 3 in sales, could we have a word with you who drive No. 1 and No. 2?

We didn't get to be number 3 just by selling luxury cars. We got there by convincing a lot of people in the low-price field—people like yourself—that Olds has more to offer. That Omega is a lot of compact. That Cutlass is the mid-sized car to own. That Delta 88 is the big car to choose. That's why we're number 3 in sales. That's why we'd like to have a word with you
